POISONERS ON TRIAL

MANY FARMERS ON HIGHT JURY

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 8.—A jury has been selected for the trial of Lawrence M. Hight, former circuit rider pastor, and Mrs. Elsie Sweeten, who are charged with the murder of Wilford Sweeten.

Opening arguments will be presented this afternoon but the first witnesses probably will not be placed on the stand until tomorrow.

Of the twelve men selected, nine are farmers, one a merchant, one a laborer and one a carpenter

"I don't like to see so many farmers, they are too conservative and don't know enough about life," the former pastor said during a recess.

Mrs. Sweeten refused to comment.

MORTIMER SOLD LIQUOR PERMITS

FEDERAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, Dec 8.—"Colonel Forbes was after all the money he could get," Elias H. Mortimer, chief government witness in the Forbes-Thompson fraud case, testified on cross-examination this afternoon.

"I gave Colonel Forbes $1,500 in cash in Washington," Mortimer stated in answer to a question by James S. Easby-Smith, attorney for Charles R. Forbes, former veterans' bureau chief.

"Was anyone else present?" the witness was asked.

"Certainly not—I wouldn't have given Forbes any money in the presence of other people."

"You knew it was a crooked transaction, then, didn't you?"

"Of course; I kne wit. Colonel Forbes was after all the money he could get."

On petition of Easby-Smith, the court ordered the last remark stricken from the record.

Mortimer, a special agent of the partment of justice, testified for the government that Forbes and John W. Thompson, millionaire St. Louis contractor, conspired to defraud the government in the construction of veteran hospitals. He admitted being a party to the plot.

Easby-Smith on cross-examination attempted to show Mortimer was entirely irresponsible and wholy untruthful." To do this he brought out that the witness often lived under assumed names, was involved in several illegal liquor transactions and was a "professional" witness in many trials and congressional hearings.

CHICAGO. Dec. 8.—Attorney Eawby-Smith counsel for Colonel Forbes, today brought out that Mortimer—while on the payroll of the department of justice—was an officer of a stevedore firm and in this capacity negotiated contracts with the United States shipping board.

The court held that since the defense made nc claims that the contracts were illegal, Easby-Smith must discontinue this line of inquiry.

Mortimer was then questioned regarding his testimony in the trial of Congressman Langley of Kentucky. The witness admitted that in the Langley hearing he testified he was paid $100,000 for obtaining whisky from a Pennsylvania distillery but maintained he kept only one-third of that amount.

He then was led to confess that he was a Washington agent for a wholesale drug firm.

"And did you sell your wares in Washington?" Easby-Smith asked.

"Yes," Mortimer replied.

"What did you sell?"

"Liquor permits," Mortimer replied in subdued tones, after attempting to evade use of the word liquor.

WILL REORGANIZE BURGESS-NASH FIRM

Action of Judge Woodrough in Naming Receiver for Business Forecasts Its Sale.

OMAHA, Dec. 8.—The action of Judge Woodrough in appointing a receiver for the Burgess-Nash company today forecasts the sale of the business and its reorganization within a few days, one of the attorneys interested in the proceedings said. Agreements to this end were reached at a conference in New York last week in which Frank H. Woods, Lincoln, representing the Woods brothers, in charge of the store, participated. The naming of a receiver was taken as a preliminary and necessary step in completing the sale.

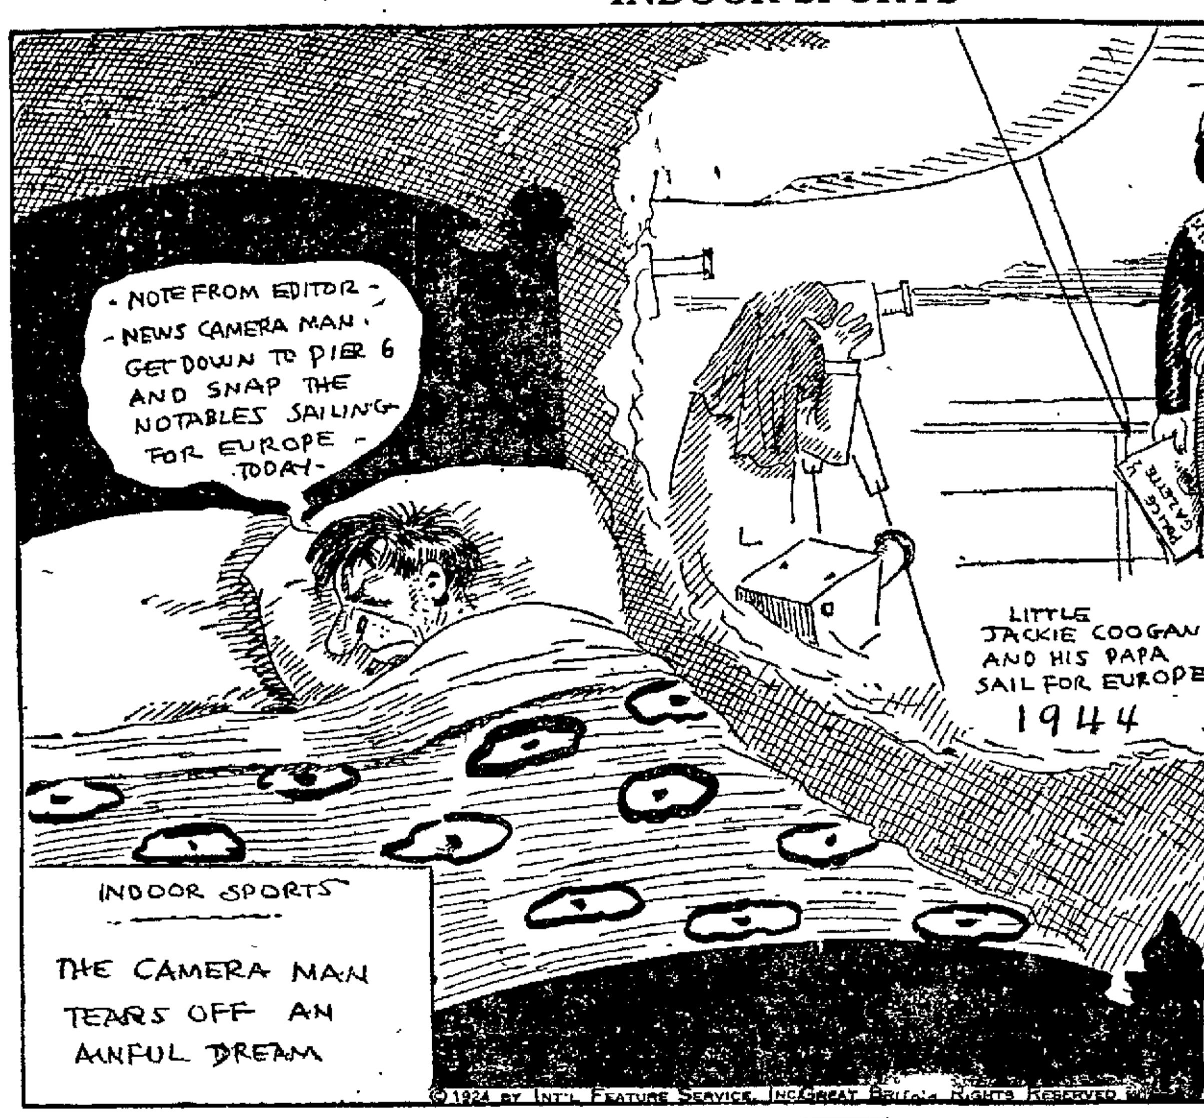

The business will be conducted as usual pending the sale, the management announced and none of the 700 employes will be thrown out of work.

The Seigel-Levy company of New York, representing the Merchandising Creditors group, and the National City bank, of New York, representing a banking creditors group, filed one of the petitions alleging the company was insolvent. The other was filed by the H. J. Heinz company.

Judge Woodrough today consolidated the petitions of the two groups. He also sustained a supplemental answer filed by the company in which it admitted the insolvency, and consented to the appointment of a receiver and the immediate sale of the store.

MILEAGE OF POLICE CAR

COWGILL SUSPECTS FIGURES OF BEING TOO HIGH.

Declines to Admit That a Cop Car Can Do More Going in Six Months Than That of an Inspector.

Regardless of the Cowgill-Johnstone controversy over police car mileage, Mayor Zehrung was prepared Monday afternoon to introduce a resolution calling for purchase of a new Ford coupe via the exchange route The city to turn in a coupe now in use and pay $240 in money.

Mr. Cowgill raised considerable fuss when he first learned of the proposed transaction. Ever since the council called a halt to his purchases of motorized equipment, he has cast a suspicious eye upon all automobile transactions. He ventured the opinion that the car being turned in has not traveled over 7,000 miles. Chief of Police Johnstone reports that it has been used over 20,000 miles. The chief goes by the speedometer plus estimated mileage when the speedomter was not in use. The street departmnt head declined to say whether or not he would oppose the resolution.

"A car worth $394 shouldn't be traded in," he said "My plumbing inspector travels 1200 miles a month and I cannot believe that this car covers more miles. It is Lieut. Joe Rymer's personal car."

When asked about the mileage, Chief Johnstone said:

"That's right. The car is used by Joe Rymer As police lieutenant. he has charge of all outside activities from 7 o'clock at night until 7 a. m He is on the go checking up on members of the shot-gun squads and patrolmen all the time He never travels under 100 miles a night"

Assessment resolutions having to do with improvement costs in eighteen sewer, re-surfacing, alley paving, re-paving, paving and water districts, were passed They involve total improvement costs $75,625.4[illegible]

The police department report for November shows that 282 persons [illegible] and that $1,748.35 [illegible] fines and costs was paid into court.

CONGRESS CLEARS DECKS FOR ACTION

Most Important Problems Before Houses This Session May Come up Sometime During the Week.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The decks in congress are cleared for decisive action this week on what may prove to be the most important problems that will come before it this session.

Final disposition of the Muscle Shoals problem by adoption of a modification of the Underwood bill; adoption of the navy reconditioning bill and a vote upon the president's veto of the postal salarise increase bill are planned by senate leaders.

Decision on the Underwood Muscle Shoals bill is hanging fire, awaiting word from the white house as to how the president stands. He is expected to give the word today and clear the way for adoption of the measure tomorrow if it is possible. Senator Underwood, author of the measure, has been given reason to believe that the president will support the bill.

Chairman Hale of the naval affairs committee, wants to bring before the senate today or tomorrow the old navy bill which failed of final adoption in the closing moments of the last congress because of objections from Senator King, Utah democrat. It is expected to be passed speedily.

It provides for building of light cruisers and reconditioning capital ships to bring the condition of the navy up to the par of the disarmament treaty.

Senator Edge, New Jersey republican, is holding back on the postal salaries bill which was vetoed last spring in an effort to conclude a compromise which will permit the president to sign the measure. But he is being pressed by democrats led by Senator Dill of Washington, who believes that the old bill can be passed in the same form.

The house laid aside the interior appropriation bill today and took up legislation aqecting the District of Columbia.

A final vote in the interior bill is expected tomorrow. Following its disposal the house will begin consideration of the agriculture supply bill the second of the twelve regular money bills.

KID LOSES THE FIRST ROUND

LOS ANGELES, Dec 8. — Kid McCoy, once a prize ring hero, lost the first round of his fight for life here today

Motion of the defense for a second continuance of McCoy's trial on a charge of killing Mrs. Teresa Mors, his paramour, was denied by Judge Charles S. Crail.

The defense plea that some necessary witness had not been found showed "a lack of diligence" the court declared. Consideration for nearly 100 witnesses of the state and defense who were on hand prevented another postponement of the trial, Judge Crail held.

The decision that the trial must proceed came after the defense request had been opposed by Deputy District Attorney Fricke in vigorous terms.

Selection of the jury was started after Judge Crail's decision. Thirty-five of the 50 members of the jury panel are women.

VICTORY IS REPUBLICAN

Germans Retain Their Present Government.

MANY ELECTORS TURN OUT

Is Heaviest Vote Ever Polled in Germany.

Socialists, Democrats and Centrists Decisively Ahead of the Nationalists, Communists and Fascisti.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—On a basis of latest returns, the next German reichstag will be composed as follows:
- Socialists, 126.
- Nationalists, 97.
- Centrists, 66.
- Communists, 44.
- Folks party, 49.
- Folkists (fascisti), 13.
- Democrats, 30.
- Bavarian (folks party), 19.
- Wiertschafts and Bavarian peasants, 14.
- Landbund, 8.

It will be impossible until tomorrow to say how the necessary coalition will line up.

BERLIN, Dec 8—The republican group in Germany won a victory in the national elections which were held thruout the country Sunday.

Returns from practically all election districts at 8:30 a. m. showed the socialists, democrats and centrists ran decisively ahead of the nationalists, communists and fascisti. The latter were practically wiped out

Approximately 85 per cent of the electorate went to the polls to choose the new reichstag, the vote being the heaviest ever polled in Germany. Many disturbances between adherents of rival parties kept police busy thruout Saturday night and Sunday

Altho there were a score of parties having candidates, the chief issue lay between the republicans, under the black, red and gold banner, and the monarchists under the black, white and red.

The former group won so decisively that it will be possible to form a republican or middle regime which will have a clear majority and will not have to kowtow to the nationalists as was the case last summer when Chancellor Marx had to make concessions to save the Dawes plan.

If the socialists, centrists, democrats and Bavarian folks party join in a coalition they can resist opposition from the nationalists or any combination of their political foes.

As a result of yesterday's elections, the nationalists are the second largest party in the reichstag but a coalition will render this negligible.

SAY IT IS OLD STUFF

REPUBLICANS NOT DISTURBED BY SORENSEN PLAN.

Represents Old Townley Idea of Burrowing in to Secure Control of Dominant Party.

The proposition of C. A. Sorensen that the radicals abandon their effort to form a new party in Nebraska and use its battalions to raid and capture republican party primaries in the future has not excited much comment among republican leaders They generally dismiss it with a wave of the hand and the comment that it is "old non-partisan league stuff" By that they mean that the plan is the one which brought the non-partisan league into existence as a political force. As the league is no more they do not believe that it will be able to wield much influence in a primary.

The balance of power plan, and then dissension and other factors cause it to lose its effectiveness. This year as for several years past the representatives of the federation of labor, farm organizations and others met and endorsed a number of candidates for the general election. This had the effect of increasing the majorities of the republican states nominees who were thus favored, but it was ineffective in putting across Norton for governor, or Bolen for railway commissioner and pulled Dan Swanson's majority down only a little.

A considerable number of voters apparently are influenced by these endorsements, but the republicans think that the number thus reached was much less than before, and that it will grow less The decisive defeat of Mr. Sorensen's cherished constitutional amendment that would have put the parties out of business is believed by them to have shown his lessened power

Mr Sorensen is undismayed He says that the republican party ought to be selected by the radicals as the organization thru which to gain power, in spite of the fact that the democratic leaders claim 90 per cent of their party's membership is progressive Mr. Sorensen says that as a matter of fact there is no democratic party in four or five of the midwestern states, and that its only successes are where men are bigger than the party Its general situation is not such as to invite capture of the primary or organization, he says

FAVOR OLD STEAM ROAD

UNADILLA CITIZENS REQUEST HIGHWAY CHANGE.

Urge Location Past Arbor Lodge and Along Historical Freight Road West From Nebraska City.

Unadilla business men came to Lincoln Monday to confer with Governor Bryan in regard to the routing of a state and federal aid road running west of Nebraska City The dispute is to be the subject of a matter of a public meeting to be held at Nebraska City December 15 The county commissioners, State Engineer Cochran and citizens of Otoe county will be present

The delegation which conferred with the governor comprise President G W Darner of the Unadilla business men's association, L H Judkins, chairman of the association's committee, G B. White, secretary, H F. Horstman, R O McCormick, Jasper Robert, all business men

The proposed road jogs south half a mile south from Central avenue at the outskirts of Nebraska City, extends west to Dunbar, thence one and one-half miles south of Dunbar and west to Syracuse.

The Unadilla delegation is asking that the road turn north from Central avenue in Nebraska City and extend north half a mile past Arbor Lodge and thence west twenty-two miles to Unadilla This is the old freighting route west from Nebraska City which was traveled in early days upon which it was proposed to run a steam tractor It is known as the old steam road This route will miss Dunbar one mile and Syracuse one and one-half miles, but its adherents say it will be three miles shorter than the other route and means that much road to grade or gravel and maintain and will save five grade crossings at railroad tracks. It is urged that tourists from the east entering the state at Nebraska City will be given an opportunity to see historical Arbor Lodge and a historical road if the Unadilla route is accepted, and that it will be less expensive and less dangerous from grade crossings.

COLDEST OF THE WINTER

ELEVEN DEGREES ABOVE RECORD OF MONDAY MORNING.

Snow Forecast Did Not Hold Good But Drop in Temperature to Near Zero Not Far Wrong.

The temperature at Lincoln at 7 and 8 a. m. was 11 degrees above, the coldest of the night. A rather brisk northwest wind was blowing but the snow forecast did not hold good. There was no snow and Monday morning was almost clear

Burlington temperature reports showed the coldest on the three eastern divisions of the Nebraska district to have been 2 degrees above, and that on the Wyoming division. On the McCook division the coldest mark reached was zero.

Train service was not greatly deranged and business was said to be moving with a fair degree of regularity

Wire trouble developed again during the night with the drop in temperature and the wind coming up. Press wires were again out of service but hope was held out that they would be restored during the day.

Burlington reports showed that a few wires had gone down during the night but that service was still maintained to most points.

Superintendent Caster of the telephone company reported that the high wind of Sunday night had torn down many wires and that the company, so far as could be ascertained in the early morning was in the same situation it was in last Thursday morning The only out lines useable were to Greenwood and Eagle

"Much ice remained on the wires from the last storm," said Mr Caster, "and much new ice formed during the evening Sunday. Then a brisk wind came up that broke down repairs already made and caused many new breaks We will not know the extent of our damage, however, until our patrolmen begin reporting"

While the Western Union and the Postal companies lost many wires both companies were able to handle business and the western Union, during the day, supplied press wires to Lincoln for the newspapers The Western Union's Omaha lines were in good shape and it was able to handle an increased business during the day, the increase coming because of the failure of telephone toll lines

CAPITOL IS MINUS LIGHT

COMMISSION HOPES STATE WILL PAY COST.

Moving Time Approaches and Commission Finds It Has No Power to Contract for Electric Current.

The capitol commission met Monday in Governor Bryan's office to plan for removing state departments that now occupy rooms in the old capitol which will be needed by the legislature next month These must be housed in the new capitol Some rooms in the new building may be ready for occupancy by December 15 or soon thereafter, according to Governor Bryan's statement.

Several matters came before the commission. At the next meeting, December 15, a decision may be reached in regard to the amount necessary to complete the capitol. Whether the governor shall ask for an appropriation of $2,500,000 has not been passed upon by the commission.

The commission in preparing for the moving of departments now in legislative rooms decided what rooms shall be assigned in the new capitol and given a coat of paint.

It has developed that the state normal board, now a constitutional body, has not asked for quarters in the capitol. For many years it has been the custom of this board to have an office in any particular town where its secretary may happen to live. It has no office in the capitol where its records may be seen. The board's office is at Chadron, the home of Secretary Resiche.

Current for light has not been contracted for. The capitol commission believes it has no authority to contract for light or heat after the new rooms are turned over to the state. It is planned to turn rooms over singly or in groups to some one representing the state as soon as they are ready for occupancy. If the commission waits until the whole section of the building is completed it cannot accept the whole from the contractor before next summer. It will accept and turn over rooms singly.

Who shall accept rooms on behalf of the state, now that it is known the legislature of 1919 repealed the law giving the board of educational lands and funds legal custody of the capitol, has not been determined. The governor is legal custodian for the state where no other official has authority.

Governor Bryan has asked Land Commissioner Swanson to estimate the amount of money which may be required for light and heat for the new building after January 1 until the end of the biennium by departments that will occupy the building. The governor will make a recommendation to the legislature for such an appropriation

No bids have been received by the commission for electric current for the new capitol. It finds installation of equipment can hardly be made before January 8. Whether the commission shall permit a company to put its own transformers in the new capitol room provided for that purpose or whether the state shall own its own transformers is a question not settled No bids on the cost of tearing down the old building have been received.

"I do not think it necessary or advisable, but on the contrary it would be a waste of state funds to create a commission or continue the present capitol commission to care for the building after it is finished," said Governor Bryan when asked for his views

SCHOOL HOUSE AT PIERCE.

State Superintendent Matzen attended the recent dedication of the Pierce grade and high school building a structure costing $185,000 with equipment. Berlinghof of Lincoln was the architect It replaces a brick building built in 1881 Bonds were voted for $175,000 The building has a sub-basement, ground story and first and second stories

COURT ROOM PICKED OUT

COUNCILMAN DAYTON GIVES HIS O. K. MONDAY.

Municipal Judge Chappell Will Spend Few Days at Omaha and Council Bluffs in Studying Courts.

After a conference Monday between Municipal Judge Chappell, O. J. Fee, representing the community chest and George Dayton, custodian of city property, announcement was made that on January 8, 1925, the new court which takes the place of two justice courts and one police court, will open for business on the fourth floor of the city hall.

Judge Chappell will leave Tuesday with his chief clerk and deputy clerk for Omaha and Council Bluffs to study municipal court conduct in these cities. Council Bluffs boasts of two municipal judges and it is generally assumed that Lincoln will eventually have two, one for criminal business and the other for civil business

The historic federal court railing, platform and bench will be cleaned and polished and lifted from the old council chamber on the second floor to the fourth floor The chief clerk's office will be given a dignified fencing. Judge Chappell will have three rooms, the large court room, a chief clerk's room and a stenographic or work room.

This arrangement may result in the grouping of all community chest activities on the second floor. The boy scouts, the humane society and the community chest office are now on that floor. Mr Dayton suggests that the Red Cross and the Campfire girls, now on the fourth floor, may be relocated on the second floor. This plan contemplates the tearing away of certain second floor partitions but will involve little expense.

The municipal court, in fact, is expected to be a money maker for the city Fines will go to the schools but the city will take the costs. This is the present arrangement in connection with police court cases, the fines going to the schools and the costs to the police fund

WITNESS ADMITS THE USE OF ALIASES

Star For Government Called "Professional" Witness By Defense.

ONCE KNOWN AS SCHROEDER

Lived in Chicago Apartment With a Mrs. Schroeder.

PARTY TO THE CONSPIRACY

Man Who Accused Forbes and Thompson of Defrauding Government Makes Confession on Stand.

FEDERAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, Dec 8—Elias H. Mortimer, star government witness in the Forbes-Thompson fraud trial today was characterized as a man of many aliases, and a "professional" witness by James S. Easby-Smith, defense attorney, in the course of cross-examination

Mortimer admitted he has often been known under assumed names such as Harvey F. Schroeder and G. J. Allegra. He also admitted he had been "frequently used as a government witness." His salary, the witness testified, was eleven dollars a day plus transportation.

Mortimer's direct testimony included charges that Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the veterans bureau and John W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, entered into a plot to defraud the government out of $1,000,000 in the erection of government hospitals. He was a party to the conspiracy, he said, and accepted and paid out money in furtherance of the alleged fraud.

Easby-Smith, following the general line of the defense, attempted on cross-examination to destroy the value of Mortimer's direct testimony by showing him "wholly untruthful."

"What is your real name?" Easby-Smith asked, emphasizing the "real."

"Elias H. Mortimer," the witness replied.

"Haven't you used assumed names and lived in various places under aliases?"

"I have."

"Have you ever used the name Harvey F. Schroeder?"

"I have."

"Do you know a Chicago woman named Schroeder?"

"I do"

"Didn't you live in an apartment with Mrs. Schroeder?"

"Yes sir."

"Under the name of Schroeder?"

"Yes."

"Did you ever sleep there."

"Did you sleep there?"

"Certainly"

"With whom?"

"By myself," Mortimer shouted and clenched his fists as tho he was preparing to leap at Easby-Smith.

The court at this point objected to Easby-Smith's line of questioning declaring the "name of a woman is being dragged into this case for no reason at all that I can see."

Testimony Stricken Out.

When Forbes' attorney protested, the court snapped him off and ordered all testimony concerning "Mrs. Schroeder" stricken from the record.

It was Mortimer's contention that he had "roomed" with the woman but Easby-Smith had him identify a lease of the apartment and the witness admitted signing it.

Building the ground work for charges of forgery, Easby-Smith asked the witness to sign the name of "E. H Mortimer." Counsel for the government objected strenuously but were overruled by the court.

Mortimer was given a pen and paper and asked to sign his name first as "E. H. Mortimer" then "Elias H. Mortimer" then "Elias Harvey Mortimer" until the court ruled on each request.

TO HANDLE CREAM HAUL

EXPRESS COMPANY CONTRACT TO UNION PACIFIC.

Joins Northwestern and Burlington in Its Method of Handling Milk and Cream Haulage in the Future.

The Union Pacific railroad company has notified the state railway commission that after the first of the year it will handle all cream and milk shipments itself, without the aid of the American Railway Express company, and has filed for approval a schedule of rates charged which is the same as that now in force by the express company.

In taking this step the Union Pacific is following the example of the Burlington and Northwestern, which have always handled these shipments on their own account. The contract with the express company has provided that the railroad company should receive whatever was left after the express company had paid the cost of handling these commodities and 6 per cent on the value of the express company property used in the work. In 1916, the latest figures available, the company received in the neighborhood of $100,000 revenue from this business.

The Union Pacific has supplied the cars for the express company for this work, but the latter has furnished the men and did all of the work connected with loading, unloading, billing and the like.

COP COURT PROCEEDINGS

Penalties for speeding and for intoxication were meted out in police court Monday morning with equal severity for both offenses.

Earl Hillyer, charged with violating the eighteen-mile speed limit, received a continuance for sixty days during which he was cautioned not to drive a car. F. Baslington, charged with a similar offense, paid a fine of $10 and $4 70 costs.

Joe Tolle and Hugh Hibbs, charged with drunkenness, were fined $25 each and $4 75 costs, and N. Draper, held on a similar charge, was paroled for ninety days to Captain Hoppes of the Salvation Army.

M. J Thompson was dismissed on a charge of driving thru a funeral procession.

Mikel Sligal, arrested on a charge of drunkenness was fined $10 and $5 90 costs.

OBJECT TO A PROTOCOL

BRITISH VIEWS SET FORTH BY CHAMBERLAIN.

Arrival of Mussolini at Private Session of Council of League Is Cheered by Waiting Crowd.

ROME, Dec. 8.—At a private session of the council of the league of nations in the throne room of the imposing doria palace, Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, outlined today the objections of his government to the proposed protocol of disarmament and security which was the product of the league assembly at Geneva in September.

Carabiniers in brilliant full dress trappings of red and blue formed a colorful escort for delegates to the council meeting as they arrived at the palace. A considerable crowd cheered arrival of Premier Mussolini.

M. Mello, of France, presided at the morning session, which adopted agenda for the ensuing sessions, which will be public.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Advertisement.

The Clavilux

INITIAL APPEARANCE IN LINCOLN

First instrument to make possible the use of light as a fine art.

WITH ITS INVENTOR

THOMAS WILFRED at the keyboard

Gives as much pleasure to the eye as music does to the ear.

If you could leap into the heart of the aurora and clutch an armful of its pendulous glory you would only know a part of what the Clavilux has to show. If you could imprison a section of the rainbow you would only have a fraction of what the Clavilux sets before you. And amid all this color — every tint that you ever saw or dreamt of and all these strangely beautiful forms — there is never ending movement, graceful and rhythmic beyond anything possible to man or bird.

THE RIGHT HUSBAND

The Story of a Popular Girl Who Chose the Right Man.

The Last Plea.

She met Dr. Bennington that evening just before the lecture hour. One keen glance into her face told him that she knew that he was a married man.

"Someone has told you" he said, taking her hand and walking along beside her. "Yes, I know I should have told you in the beginning. But I wanted to wait until I was free. I wanted to wait until the divorce. That is why I said you were not ready for marriage yet. I hoped to keep you studying until I was free to marry you."

Daphne withdrew her hand from his strong, firm grasp. She hated this man who had tried to make love to her as a bachelor and only confessed the truth after others had informed her he was married.

"Please do not speak of marriage or careers to me again," she said. "The fact that you are going to be a divorced man is not what prejudices me. It is simply the fact that you did not tell me in the beginning. Oh, what right had you to kiss me last night and to hold me to you when you are still a married man in the eyes of the law!"

"Didn't I apologize this morning? Didn't I tell you that I was more interested in your career than anything else? Daphne, I love you as no other man will ever love you. Mine is the mature love of a man who has never found love in his first marriage. I wanted you to study under me, to become an expert nurse and in time, perhaps even a doctor. When I receive my final divorce decree we can be married."

But Daphne was thru. Had Dr. Bennington talked like this in the beginning, had he given the plea that she knew all divorced men give, that of never having found happiness in their first marriage, she might have been won over. But she could not forget that this man had posed as a bachelor, had dared to kiss her when he was married to another woman.

Again Dr. Bennington's hand sought hers, but she pushed it from her.

"No, everything is over between us," she said firmly. "I would not care to marry a man who has ever deceived me. Besides, Dr. Bennington, I am very anxious to marry a man I have always termed 'the right husband.' So many of my friends have made marital mistakes that I am going to be very careful in selecting my husband. Perhaps I am asking too much, but I expect love, companionship and that implicit trust and faith in each other that only the happiest married couples experience."

"And you think I do not come up to these measurements?" His voice was kind, most conciliatory.

"Not at all!" She looked him squarely in the face and met a spark of humor in his eyes.

"Well, you're a dear little Titian-haired girl with lots of pep and spirit," he said, holding out his hand as a comrade. "I hope you will find this great, wonderful, right husband. Meantime, if you don't, I'll get my divorce and maybe some day, Daphne, you'll see that I loved you so much I was willing to pose as a bachelor and to teach you all that I knew about medicine just until the day I could tell you I was free."

CLAVILUX RECITAL HERE

Latest Invention, "Color Organ," to Be Played by Its Maker at Auditorium.

Songs without sounds. Cadenzas of color. Ceaseless rhythmic motion of fantastic forms on a large white screen. This is what happens when Thomas Wilfred, pioneer in the art of light, sits down at the keyboard of his instrument, the Clavilux, which is coming to Lincoln on Tuesday, December 16, under the auspices of the American Legion.

"The Clavilux or, as some people prefer to call it, the color organ, is an elaborate and highly sensitive electrical instrument upon which Mr. Wilfred has been working for nineteen years. It gives a skilled performer absolute control over pure white light as an organist has control over sound when he sits at the pipe organ console," says Prof. C. J. Frankforter.

"The Clavilux contains formless white light plus all possibilities and if an unskilled person moved the keys the result on the screen would be only ugly splashes of muddy colors. The artist, however, bends the light into beautiful forms and makes them move gracefully over the screen in slow rythm. He then fills them with interlacing gorgeous colors that change with the rythm, brings in other forms in other rhythms and colors, finally working up to a climax that well nigh takes your breath away.

"No—it has no music played with it. No one would want music after having watched five minutes of the first composition. For the first time in the history of art we have silent abstract beauty, enjoyed thru the eye alone."

A huge electric plant to harness the historic river Jordan will supply all Palestine with electricity.

POSTPONED RATE DATE

EXPRESS COMPANY CHARGES CONTINUED TWO MONTHS.

Government Not Abel to Get Tariffs Prepared in Time for Making Them Effective First of January.

John E Benton, representative at Washington of the association of state railway commissioners, wired the state railway commission Monday that the effective date of the new schedule of express rates had been changed from January 1 to March 1, because of inability to get the tariffs in shape by that time. This postpones for two months the reduction of 11 per cent in rates that the state commisison and other bodies had secured for this section of the country, which is known as Zone Three.

It is not certain that the new rates will go into effect on that date for the reason that the western and southern carriers, which will have their revenues reduced, have gone into the federal court at St. Paul and asked for an injunction on the ground that the class rates should not be reduced as provided in the order.

The west won a victory in the order as secured, but it is a question whether it can hold it. The eastern part of the country has been so favored in the matter of rates that the west has been carrying a part of the burden, and the new order sought to equalize them. The injunction suit covers only the rates in the zone from two to five, which covers the west and south.

Mr. Benton thinks that the state commission should promptly intervene in the lawsuit, and make a fight there to retain the fruits of the victory won before the interstate commerce commission.

FILM FOR LIVESTOCK MEN

Veterinarians to Show Pictures of Foot and Mouth Disease Activities.

Secretary Woodring of the Nebraska state veterinary medical association has invited the general public, especially farmers and stockraisers, to attend the afternoon session of the association beginning at 1:30 p. m., Tuesday, December 9, at the Lincoln hotel at which time a motion picture covering activities in connection with the recent foot and mouth outbreak will be shown.

The pictures were taken in the affected territory and the public may become informed along the lines of livestock disease control as carried on by the federal government in cooperation with the states.

Nebraska has been fortunate thus far in keeping this dread disease from her boundaries but owing to its prevalence in foreign countries livestock sanitary officials must keep on the alert at all times to prevent its introduction.

Is Your Back Giving Out?

You Can't Be Happy When Every Day Brings Nagging Bachache and You Are Tired, Nervous and Unfit.

EVERY day the same old nagging backache? No let-up to the lameness and stiffness—no sudden twist without those torturing, knife-like twinges? It's little wonder you are so worried, worn out and discouraged.

Your health and happiness are too precious to carelessly let slip away. You owe it to yourself to be prompt in finding out what is wrong.

Likely it's your kidneys. Too often these hard-working blood filters are neglected. They weaken and impurities accumulate. The bodily machinery is upset by these harmful poisons. Then come throbbing backaches, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. You feel weak and nervous—unable to enjoy life.

Don't wait for serious kidney trouble. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. No other kidney remedy is so universally used. None so strongly recommended. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Lincoln Folks:

CHARLES M'KINNEY, 112 S. 17th. Says: "My kidneys gave out while I was husking corn and my back ached so I couldn't stoop. I had pains in my limbs and my kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Pills and they soon rid me of the backache and pains. My kidneys were regulated too."

MRS. M. P. BLAKELY, 336 South 19th Street, says: "My kidneys were weak and I had a lame and aching back that made it hard for me to keep going. My kidneys didn't act right and they caused a heavy, bearing down feeling. I used Doan's Pills and have never had another attack so much good. Doan's relieved the backache and regulated my kidneys. I felt much better in every way."

ASKS FACTS REPORTED

Senate Calls on Federal Trade Commission for Information on "Big Five."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—A resolution calling upon the federal trade commission to report all facts concerning an alleged attempt of the "Big Five" packers to secure modification of a recent court decree against them was adopted today by the senate. The decree restrains the packers from competing in the wholesale grocery trade.

The resolution states that the packers are fighting the decree and that inasmuch as "public policies are involved," the commission should furnish the senate with information as to whether the action of the packers is justified and whether, if the packers succeeded in vacating the decree, it will prove detrimental to the public interest. The resolution was introduced by Senator Norris, Nebraska, a leader of the midwestern farm group.

AGITATORS TAKEN UP

PARIS GOVERNMENT WOULD SUPPRESS UPRISING.

Sixty Taken Over Frontier of Over 1,000 Arrested—Communists Strike Back, Slaying Police Inspector.

PARIS, Dec. 8.—More than one thousand foreign agitators have been arrested in a sweeping week end drive against communists—a move by the Herriot government to suppress a possible uprising. Most of those arrested were released, but sixty were taken over the frontier on Sunday.

Those expelled included forty-three Italians, seven Belgians, six Poles and one Serb, Swiss, Swede and German.

It was not until Sunday morning that these agitators were taken to the border.

The communists struck back, murdering a popular police inspector named Faguet, in a Paris suburb, where he was on duty watching a "red" nest. The communist organ L'Humanite, is printing flaming editorials, denouncing the government's course in "house cleaning."

SUGGESTIONS FOR SOLVING CROSS-WORD PUZZLES.

Start out by filling in the words of which you feel reasonably sure. These will give you a clue to other words crossing them, and they in turn to still others. A letter belongs in each white space, words starting at the numbered squares and running either horizontally or vertically or both.

FUNDAMENTALISTS RULE

Expected to Have Upper Hand in Presbyterian Conference at Chicago This Week.

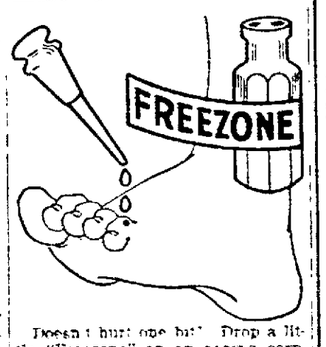

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—Open condemnation of modernistic religious training and its exponents, by the Presbyterion church, was predicted by leaders arriving here today for the national Presbyterian conference, which convenes tomorrow night for a four day meeting.

Dr Clarence Edward McCartney of Philadelphia will sound the orthodox battle call in the keynote address of the conference Dr McCartney was a leader in the fundamentalist attack on Dr Harry Fosdick of the First Presbyterian church of New York that resulted in Dr Fosdick's resignation, which becomes effective March 1.

This controversy rocked the church to its foundation and a notable representation of fundamentalists are in attendance at the conference ostensibly to direct action intended to preclude the possibility of future revolts against orthodox Presbyterian teachings.

William Jennings Bryan, vice moderator of the church was a staunch fundamentalist will take a place in the ranks headed by Dr McCartney in the fight to a finish on modernism.

Every parish in the nation is expected to be represented at the conference. Dr William Chalmers Covert, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Chicago, will preside.

KID FACES BIG FIGHT

M'COY BATTLING THIS TIME FOR HIS LIFE.

Defense to Seek Another Postponement, But This Will Be Contested by Attorneys for State.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—"Kid" McCoy, former prize ring idol, went into superior court today to face the greatest battle of his career.

The "Kid" was charged with slaying Mrs. Teresa Mors, his last love, with whom he had been living. The state was to demand that he hang.

The defense, according to rumor before the trial opened, will seek another postponement. Deputy district attorneys in charge of the prosecution will contest the move.

MACDONALD DIDN'T FORGET

Sends Check for Campaign Accident to Baby Cab.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—There's at least one mother in the British Isles who thinks Ex-Premier Ramsay MacDonald is about the squarest man on record.

During the recent election campaign, MacDonald's automobile knocked over a baby buggy down in Coalville. Big affairs of state had to be hurriedly wound up as the first Labor premier turned over his affairs to his Tory successor, but through it all MacDonald never forgot the overturned baby buggy down in Coalville.

The other day, out of office, "Good Old Mac," as his followers call him, mailed a check to the Coalville Labor Party to cover his perambuator reparations.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 8.—More than 1,000,000 people in the United States are victims of the drug habit. The average age of the heroin addict is twenty-two years. America consumes four times as much "dope" as all Europe combined. These startling facts were pointed out by A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees in an address here.

YOUTHS ADMIT A ROBBERY

Trio Pleads Guilty to Holding up Falls City Man—Held for District Court.

TECUMSEH, Neb., Dec 8.—Feno Cutila, sixteen, Joe Salvesta, seventeen, and Claude Brown, eighteen, the latter of South Omaha, were arraigned in county court at Falls City Saturday. All three pleaded guilty to robbing Charles A. Tolles of $5 at Falls City. All three were committed to the county jail upon failure to arrange bond fixed at $750 each. They will be held over for district court.

The three youths were apprehended at Auburn after the holdup at Falls City. One of the trio made the statement to officers that all three had "done time" in the industrial school at Kearney, and that they were on parole from that institution at this time.

Your Problems

BY MARY GORDON

Dear Mary Gordon: In answer to the letter written you by Discouraged, will say, I had a knitting machine about two years ago and it was not a success with me and I could not sell it so I gave it away. It cost me $70 plus express.

If just the knitting of them was all there was to it, it wouldn't be so much, but after the sock is finished on the machine it has to be closed by hand with a darning needle and the exact color of thread and then put on a wooden form, dampened and pressed with a hot iron; so you see there is more to them than just the knitting and it sure takes time for the hand work. Of course Discouraged and husband might make good with one for a man can do the work as well as a woman.

There is another girl here in Lincoln who nas one or nad one and I could not do much with mine and I went to her home and watched her work. She did beautiful work and it seemed easy for her, but she, too, wanted to sell her machine.

The people I sent my machine to have had it a year and do not seem to be able to do anything with it. And the yarn is awful (and awful is right) expensive too. I do not know what more to say only, that I'd rather have my $70 than the experience I've had with the machine. Hoping I have given the right advice I will sign—Unsuccessful.

A. It does seem odd, doesn't it, that practically all of those who declare the machines a success are willing and even anxious to sell them?

Dear Mary Gordon: Can you tell me of some firm or individual who stretches "woven wire springs?" I have a spring and it sags in the middle, and I want them stretched. Also is there any housewife in Lincoln who uses a starter to make bread instead of yeast. I'd like to get a pint of this starter from some bread maker. As ever a reader of your column.—C. C.

A. Call some of the furniture stores. No doubt they can do the work or can tell you who would be able to do it.

As for the starter, I shall be glad to pass your name on to any housewife who cares to give you some.

Dear Mary Gordon: After having been away from home for some time, going to school, I returned home to spend Thanksgiving vacation. My father had hired a young man to shuck corn for him. During my stay at home we became fairly well acquainted. He left Saturday night to spent Sunday with his folks. As he left, was it his place or mine to bid the other farewell first, and in what manner should I have done it?—Jennie F.

A. It was his place to say goodbye, since he was the one leaving. You should have said goodbye to him just as to any other friend.

Dear Mary Gordon: When you send a story to an editor are they supposed to let you know they received it?

Three weeks ago I sent a story to a certain editor with a stamped self-addressed envelope enclosed. I've never received the story, neither do I know whether they received it. Should I just wait developments, or would you write them?—Writer.

A. Most magazines do not acknowledge the receipt of a manuscript. Wait six weeks before writing concerning your manuscript. Many editors keep them that long before returning them.

Dear Mary Gordon: I am coming to you for some much needed advice.

I am in love with a wonderful girl two years my junior (I am twenty-three) who has shown every sign of carying for me but she has created an indefinable something which has caused me to be backward toward approaching her on the subject of marriage. Could you and you and would you kindly let me know how I could do this, how I should bring up the subject, what I should say and how I should act?

Hoping that I may see this in print soon, and thanking you in advance, I remain—Jack.

A. It all depends on yourself and on her. Most girls like a man to be direct and not to talk all around the subject. Why not say, "Mary Jane, I love you. Will you marry me?" That is the most direct way to bring the matter up.

Sweet Potatoes Marshmallowed Style.

Sweet potatoes in any form are always appetizing because of their beautiful color. The usual candied style with a few additional dainties are particularly tasty, and made this way they are nice light appealing luncheon dish for kiddies and grown ups.

Peel and parboil medium sized potatoes for about twenty minutes. Cut lengthwise in thick slices and place a layer of potatoes in a well-buttered baking dish.

Dot the potatoes with tiny pieces of butter and sprinkle on one tablespoonful of chopped nuts, some raisins, and one teaspoonful brown sugar. Add another layer of potatoes, butter, nuts, raisins and sugar, and proceed in this way until all the potatoes are used. Then put a layer of marshmallows on top. Bake in a hot oven until the potatoes are soft and the marshmallows a delicate brown.

BUFFALO TO BE KILLED

Montana Range Is Overstocked and 200 to 300 Head of Bison Marked for Death.

MISSOULA, Mont., Dec. 8.—Between 200 and 300 buffalo on the Montana national bison range west of here must be slain this fall, Frank Rose, the superintendent, announces. A census last summer showed 700 buffalo, 500 elk, 28 mountain sheep and 100 deer on the range and an inspection of the grasses convinced the superintendent that the preserve was about 40 per cent overstocked.

The sale of buffalo to parks and zoos is not great enough to bring the herd down to the required size, and so a large number will be slaughtered and sold on the meat market. Each fall the herd is reduced in this manner, but this year a far greater number than ever before will be butchered.

The Montana buffalo herd is the third largest in the world. The range, containing 18,000 acres, is under the supervision of the United States Biological survey.

So far Mr. Rose has obtained the services of but two cowbodys to help him in segregating the animals to be slaughtered. Few riders are willing and able to do this work. The buffalo is a stubborn animal, and the chances are ten to one he will charge the rider who attempts to cut him out of the rest of the herd.

CHURCH SELECTS PASTOR

Call to Vine Congregational Depends Upon Raising Budget for Coming Year.

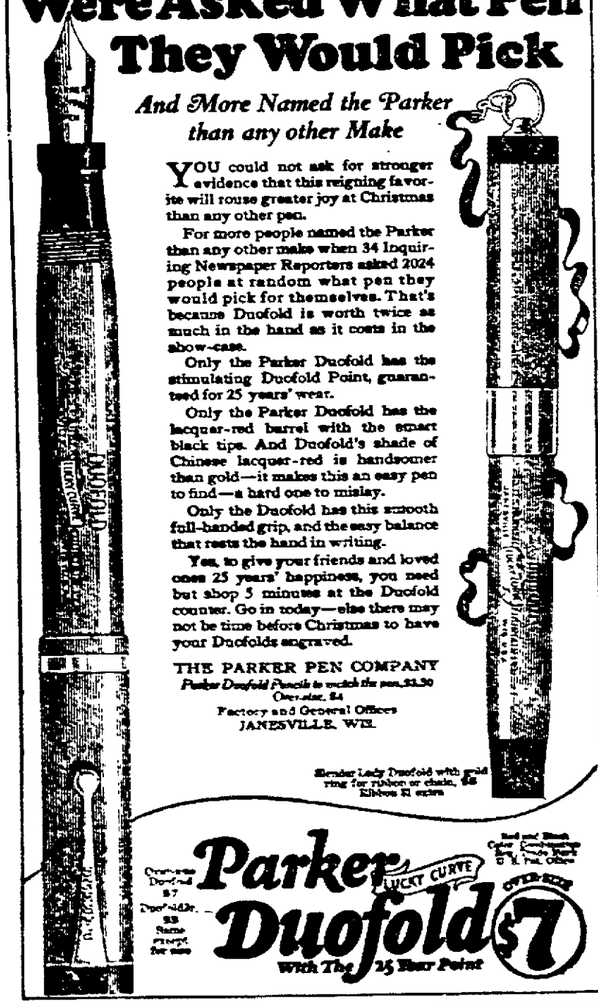

Tentative action has been taken by The Vine Congregational church towards securing a pastor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the Rev. M. A. Bullock a month ago. Preliminary correspondence has been held with a suitable minister, but the extending of the call is contingent upon securing sufficient budget. At a meeting of the committee in charge, held Sunday, the decision was made to devote next Sunday afternoon to a membership campaign, when everybody connected with the congregation will be seen about pledges. An increased budget is desired and expected.

PROGRESSIVE WAR PLAN

ONE OF OUSTED SENATORS TO TAKE ACTION.

Expected to Set Off General Blast by Calling Attention of Action of G. O. P. to the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The LaFollette group in the senate which has been silent since the election while senate republicans ousted them from the party meeting, will take the war apth this week.

At least one of the ousted members intends to bring the ouster action formally to the attention of the senate and his speech is expected to prove the touch that will set off a general blast. Senators Borah, Norris, Couzens and others in the republican ranks have indicated that they wish to speak on the question and the decision of one of the ousted members to defend his position will give them the opportunity.

WALT MASON

Some men have dogs they treasure with love that's deep and true, and other folk find pleasure in cats that squawk and mew. I love, beyond all measure my priceless kangaroo. I hear my neighbors saying that I should be in jail; my kangaroo is straying all over hill and dale; they hate to see him playing and swishing of his tail. They come in a committee and speak with deep regret; they say it is a pity to keep so punk a pet; I'm neither wise nor witty, to make my neighbors fret. They say, in language bitter, I've skippers in my dome; "keep pets," I hear them twitter, "but do not let them roam; keep any sort of critter, but keep the same at home. Your kangaroo is breaking the hearts of honest jays, and havoc he is making of garden sass we raise, and so this step we're taking in hopes you'll stop his plays. And if you do not chain him or lock him in a shed, we'll hunt him down and brain him, and bust his foolish head; the neighbors all disdain him, and wish that he were dead." My kangaroo's a cutie, but sordid people cry they do not see his beauty, as he goes whooping by; they think it is a duty to soak him in the eye. "Keep kangaroo or bunny, keep satyr, goat or gnome, keep skunks, if you'd be funny," men say, with lips afoam, "buy warthogs with your money—but keep the beasts at home."

THE HAUNTED APPLE TREE.

"I HEARD a terrible disturbance in the apple tree apartment late last night, long, long after I had gone to sleep," chirped Mrs. Robin Red-Breast to her neighbor, Mrs. Jenny Wren.

"Oh, goodness! Did you hear the fuss and noise, too?" chattered Mrs. Jenny Wren. "It awakened both Mr. Wren and myself. We looked out but we couldn't see who or what it was."

"I wonder if Billy Blue Jay would know what it was?" suggested Mrs. Robin Red-Breast.

"Let's go over and see if he heard it. He lives on the other side, you know," and away flew the two neighbors to Billy Blue Jay's house and rapped at his door.

"Good morning, ladies," said Billy Blue Jay, flipping his pretty blue tail very politely. "Something wrong?"

"Yes, indeed!" piped up Mrs. Robin Red-Breast. "Did you hear the commotion in the apple tree last night?"

"Last night!" exclaimed Billy Blue Jay. "I've heard it for the last three nights. Funny, no one has been living in that tree for ever so long."

"I can't blame them," laughed Mrs. Jenny Wren. "Maybe the house is haunted. Whatever it was, it certainly made a queer hissing sound. I wish I knew someone who could tell us what it was."

"Better, still," whispered Billy Blue Jay, "it's moonlight to-night. I'll sit guard and——"

"We'll sit with you," interrupted Mrs. Robin Red-Breast. "It will be great fun."

After planning to meet that night in Billy Blue Jay's house, the three neighbors parted. While they were watching, and after all the songsters were asleep, out from the hollow in the apple tree came a queer-looking head. In the moonlight it looked more like a hook-nosed old woman. The white of the face was almost heart-shaped, in which two jet black eyes fairly danced, they were so bright. It was just about eighteen inches long and had a white tail, spotted with black. Its legs were covered with feathers and its long pointed wings reached beyond the tail.

"We'll Sit with You."

It gazed around in every direction, then spread its wings and silently sailed away towards the barn.

"Pshaw, it's a new owl as sure as I'm alive!" exclaimed Billy Blue Jay. "Only he's such a funny-looking fellow. Wonder what kind of an owl he is?"

"Tut, tut, tut," mumbled a sleepy voice, "go to bed and don't disturb the rest of us," and old Lady Tree Toad stuck her head out her doorway. "That's only Mr. Monkey-faced Barn Owl. He just moved in here a day or so ago. I like him very much. He sleeps all day and only runs out at night. He says his eyes can't stand the sunlight. His wife has eleven of the prettiest pure white eggs you ever saw and both she and Mr. Barn Owl sit on them at once."

"Then after all, he's a good neighbor," laughed Mrs. Robin Red-Breast. "And we welcome him here. You tell them when you see them next time. I must be going back or Robin will think I've run away," and away she flew to her nest; Mrs. Jenny Wren and Billy Blue Jay went home, and Mrs. Tree Toad went back to her slumbers and once more the orchard was quiet except for the swish of Mr. Barn Owl's wings as he flew back to his wife in the early morning.

WORDS of WISE MEN

It cannot but be highly requisite for us to enliven our faith by dwelling often on the same considerations.

* * *

Though there may be many rich, many virtuous, many wise men, fame must necessarily be the portion of but few.

* * *

Ceremonies are different in every country, but true politeness is everywhere the same.

* * *

A solid and substantial greatness of soul looks down with a generous neglect on the censures and applause of the multitude.

* * *

Pleasure and pain are only different constitutions of the mind, sometimes occasioned by disorders in the body or sometimes by thoughts in the mind.

* * *

A poem is not alone any work, or composition of the poets in many or few verses, but even one verse alone is sometimes a perfect poem.

* * *

To know the pains of power we must go to those who have it, to know its pleasures we must go to those who are seeking it, the pains of power are real, its pleasures imaginary.

* * *

They are the most frivolous and superficial of mankind who can be much delighted with that praise which they themselves know to be untrue.

It is a strange folly to set ourselves no mark, to propound no end.

A WIFE'S CONFESSIONAL

Adele Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

"Never for Me—Never for Me."

SYMPATHY for Edith Fairfax is an emotion which never has troubled me much. In fact, I have felt that in the hidden but ever present antagonism between us I was the one who needed whatever stray commiseration there was to be found floating around our mental horizons.

But there was an elusive sadness in the rapturous tenderness of Edith Fairfax's face as she gazed down upon her sister's baby in her arms which caught at my heart strings and twisted them inexplicably. I felt as if I had come upon a closely guarded door, accidentally swung ajar.

For if I were any judge of human expression, there was infinite loneliness in the gaze she bent upon the little newcomer to life cradled in her arms, loneliness and its twin demon, heart hunger.

"Never for me—never for me."

So plainly to my imagination were the words written on her face that I could almost hear her give them voice, and for a moment my throat constricted with the infinite pity I felt for her.

But it was only for the moment that I was an altruist. Then, with a chilling of my pulses, there crept into my thoughts the reflection that there was but one reason for Edith Fairfax's life, and that was spelled with five letters—Dicky, my husband. And the woman who could still feel sympathy for another under similar circumstances has yet to be born.

Why Not Dr. Paige?

Silhouetted sharply against my memory sprang the figure of Dr. Jim Paige, gallant gentleman and picturesque lover, eating his heart out in his far Southern home because the slender, dainty girl opposite me, the sweetheart of his childhood, would not reward the devotion which for years he had poured out in hopeless oblation before her.

There was nothing which a normal woman could desire in life that Dr. Jim Paige could not offer her—an ample income, a beautiful home, social position and the consciousness that her husband was not only extremely good looking but brilliant and successful in his profession. Moreover, I knew that in the days before the Fairfax sisters came to New York, Edith and her distant kinsman had been, if not actually betrothed, at least sharers in a romantic "understanding" of the kind so beloved in Dixie.

And it was this man whose importunities she was repelling, even while her whole heart and soul cried out against the loneliness in which she was living and the wasted years of her youth which were slipping by! Truly, I told myself bitterly, her unrequited passion for Dicky must be—I stopped short on the word "unrequited," and asked myself with a quick little shiver of absurd alarm what authority I had for using the word.

"Make Allowances——"

As if my scrutiny of her was something that could be felt, she looked up suddenly, our glance crossed and held, and for the space of an eternity-long second all those things which lay between us raised their heads and glared at each other. Then the half-opened door I unwittingly had found clicked shut again, and we took refuge behind the barriers of perfunctory small talk.

"Her Fluffiness was a bit peeved, don't you think?" Edith asked, making the adjustment of the baby to a different position an excuse for not meeting my eyes.

"The barometer certainly indicated falling weather," I countered, "but you must make allowances for the temperamental vagaries of a newly-made grandmother."

"Did it strike you," she went on, "that she did not particularly enjoy being called 'Grandmother'?"

I wanted to make the comment that there were very few women who would have enjoyed the cognomen with the malicious emphasis which Edith had placed upon the word, but instead I only nodded a casual assent, and was relieved indeed to be interrupted by the entrance of the nurse, who without ceremony whisked the new baby from Edith's arms and back into Leila's room. I stumbled through an awkward attempt to excuse myself upon the count of seeing to the children and Mother Graham, and then rushed incontinently back to my mother-in-law's room, stopping at my own door long enough to assure myself that Junior and Marion were sleeping peacefully.

Mother Graham was wide awake and listened greedily to every detail which I could recall. And when I told her that Mrs. Durkee had gone to the kitchen to prepare a lunch for Alfred, Dicky's whimsical mother issued an ultimatum.

"Margaret," she said firmly, "Mrs. Durkee is one of the few women in the world who know how to make a decent cup of coffee. I want you to go down to the kitchen and ask her to make enough for me, too."

THE HOME KITCHEN

How to Master the Fine Art of Fritter Making

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON
The Authority on Home Cooking

THE art of making good fritters is one well worth cultivating.

They may be served as an entree, a luncheon dish, a sweet with game, or a dessert. The sweet fritters are usually served in a napkin dusted with powdered sugar, or in a sweet sauce. Those made of fish or oysters, shrimp, clam, crabmeat, lobsters or terrapin are usually served with a sharp tartar sauce, or a thin, rather highly seasoned, cream sauce.

So-called vegetable fat or oil is the best for frying fritters, as no odors are retained and the grease may be strained and used again. Fritter-batter varies little, except that the sweetening is omitted when fritters are to be made with meat or fish, and lessened for those made of vegetables. The batter in all cases must be beaten smooth before the flavoring foundation is added. The batter may be kept over a day in a cold place if any is left over.

Foundation Batter.

Sift together a cupful of flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a saltspoonful of salt, two level tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, a half teaspoonful of sugar, two small or one large egg, white and yolk beaten separately, a tablespoonful of melted butter and a quarter cupful of rich milk. Beat well then fold in the stiffly beaten egg-white. If the batter seems a little too thick add a little more milk. This batter is suitable for all meat, fish and vegetable fritters. For the sweet fritters add two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

Pineapple Fritters.

Prepare the batter adding the sugar if fresh fruit is used but not if the canned, grated fruit is used. Prepare the fresh fruit by paring then chopping fine, enough fruit to make a heaping cupful. Sprinkle the fruit with the strained juice of half a lemon and a tablespoonful of sifted powdered sugar. Beat it into the batter when mixed. If grated, canned pineapple is used, drain off the juice and use a solid cupful of the fruit.

Luncheon Fritters.

Put two cupfuls of freshly cooked rice, that has been dried off and cooled, into a bowl and add two beaten eggs, a saltspoonful of salt, a teaspoonful of sugar, a quarter cupful of milk, a scant half cupful of finely minced cold boiled ham or tongue, one and a half level cupfuls of flour and a teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat well until smooth and well mixed then drop by large spoonfuls into the hot fat. Fry a delicate brown, drain, and serve in a napkin with a smooth cream sauce, tomato sauce or tartar sauce, according to taste. Baked potatoes may be served with the fritters.

Dessert Fritters.

Make the foundation batter as directed adding the sugar. Take a cupful of preserved ginger and chop it fine, add a cupful of drained and chopped preserved green gage plums, mix and beat into the batter. Fry and dust with powdered sugar.

DOES HE SEE? By Juanita Hamel

HOW slowly drag the minutes—each as long as an hour—when one who loves awaits the arrival of her beloved! The light she has placed in the window seems to her eager eyes to be an aureole for the head of Cupid—does HE also see Cupid enshrined in the romantic glory of that light shining its welcome through the night as he hurries to her side?

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Jazzing Up Ararat

Copyright, 1924, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

THEY'RE going to turn Mount Ararat into a public playground—what do you know about that?

That's the place where Noah went ashore when the storm stopped, isn't it?

Thousands of pilgrims have gone to Mount Ararat year in and year out just to see what they have been foolish enough to call the sacred mountain—what a waste of time!

Sacred? What is there sacred about anything anyhow?

Who cares about an old Has Been like Noah, even if the real Ark really did ground on Ararat in a real day in a real year?

What we want is jazz and pictures and roller-skating rinks—they put these things up in the Yosemite Valley out in California and you ought to see the Valley—so jammed and crammed with people that there's hardly a rock in sight. To be sure I always wondered why any one could go to the top of the mountain just to jazz—why don't they do their jazzing at home and keep the money they spend for railroad fares and have something to give to the saxophone players, something handsome that he will appreciate?

The World Is Changing

No, I don't think I'll go to the new Coney Island up on the top of Mount Ararat. I'd rather go down the bay out of New York and buy my weenies and my bad coffee and my tough waffles closer to home. They won't cost so much.

And somehow, I'd love to think of some place somewhere that was different. I don't seem to care so very much what it is—so long as it's different. No, I've got nothing against jazz and I really like a hot-dog sandwich once in awhile, and as for a roller coaster—I suppose such institutions have their uses—but, dear me, I do hate to see the whole world turned into a peanut and popcorn party with nothing left inviolate but the moon and the stars!

What a nuisance it is to have the whole world making itself over to be just alike!

They say the sheiks out in the Sahara Desert have all got radios tied to their saddle bows, and the beauties of the harems have bobbed their hair.

Over in Japan it's as much as your life is worth to find a real kimono, and the mandarin coats we used to get in China are no more. You find plenty of coats there, bright-colored enough, too, at that—but most of them are made in Europe or America—and they look the part.

I suppose it's all very civilized and up-to-date—but, dear me, I do hope the jazz fiends will keep out of South America and the regions of the Amazon. I've always been crazy to go down the Amazon on a raft and catch a blue parrot with a red head and two yellow wings, and a ring-tailed monkey and maybe a real tapir or an armadillo—we had pictures of them in the geographies, don't you remember?

Shall We Be All Alike?

What a shock it would be if I get there and find the parrots all singing out the latest popular song, and meet the cannibal king out for a walk with the monkeys on a leash, like an Irish terrier, walking down Fifth avenue.

What a tiresome old world it's going to be when we all look alike and think alike and dress alike and feel alike! No, I'm afraid I won't buy any stock in the Mount Ararat Pleasure Garden Company, Inc.—not just yet.

It makes me feel just the least little bit lonesome, even to think of it.

Advice to Girls, By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty years old. I am considered a "modern" girl. Almost a year ago I met my ideal man. I went with him for three months, and at the end of that time he just stopped calling. I was heart broken for a while, but soon got so that I didn't care for myself or anyone else.

Until that time I was what a minister would call a model girl, but since then—well, I smoke, swear, drink and play around with men of all ages and classes, although I actually hate them all.

Sometimes I really would like to be good, but what is the use? It seems that I cannot have what my heart most desires. Every time I see him with another woman, I just want to kill her. I never was jealous of anyone before. But I never cared for anyone before. I think of him all the time. When I was going with him, I simply worshipped him. I really don't think life is worth living. Please give me any advice you can. BETH.

BETH: Dear, dear Beth, life is worth living, and it is not too late yet for you to make it worth while. Will you let one disappointment defeat you and drag you from the high ideal you once held? Obstacles in life are a challenge to the best that is in us, and it is the good in you that makes you hate the things you are now doing.

The life you are living will never bring you happiness, because you are at odds with your real self. Only in harmony will you find happiness again, dear.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of seventeen, and unlike most girls at this age, regard men admirers less seriously than they. I do not spend much time at parties, movies or the places where most girls find their greatest delight. I find other things more worth while. Many persons tell me I am missing everything. Am I? Is my attitude wrong?

My friends recognize me as a happy, good-humored person, after all, and one of good character. I believe these are essential. Are they? IRENE.

IRENE: My dear, why worry about what other people say when you have found your own way to happiness? You are a very fortunate girl indeed, for you are contented with your life, and that is the secret we are all seeking.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been going with a man for about four months. He is young and I am young, too. I am not thinking of marriage and neither is he. He has been coming up every Sunday night and he is one of the nicest men I've ever known.

The last Sunday night he was here, he said that he would come again the following Sunday night, if he got back from his visit in time. He also said that he would call me if he got back in time to come. He did get back in time to call me and to come, but went to see another girl instead. He went with this girl the same time he did with me.

Must I let him come back, under the circumstances? The last time I saw him, I let him kiss me.

If he does come back, must I continue to let him kiss me?

I called him up after the last time he came to see me and asked him to a party with me. He said he could not go, since he was leaving early the next morning, but he came with a crowd of men and girls. I am afraid he does not care for my company. SHORTY.

SHORTY: You should never have allowed this man to kiss you, dear. You see what has happened as a result. Kisses given to a man to whom you are not engaged, cheapen you. Now that you have learned your lesson, my dear, you will know what to do in the future. And if this man should ever try to renew the friendship let him know how you feel on the subject.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her in care of this office.

YOUR HEALTH

Frequent Examinations Are One Secret of Long Life

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

ONE of my friends in a distant state just died of erysipelas. It is rare for an adult to die of this disease. I think I may say it never happens unless there is some associated or underlying disease. In the case of my friend, I understand he had diabetes. This would account for his lowered resistance and the fatal issue of his attack of erysipelas.

There is a warning in this which should not be disregarded. If you will watch yourself and at once get rid of any simple ailment that may attack you, you have every prospect of escaping serious trouble even if the disease that attacks you is serious.

That is a sort of an Irish bull, isn't it? Of course you would never die if you speedily rid yourself of physical ailments as they came along.

What I have in mind is that many a person has some sort of chronic disability without knowing it. He doesn't know it because he has no systematic method of checking up on his health. You may feel well, look well and believe you are well, when as a matter of fact you have some kidney, nervous or heart condition which would be a serious handicap in case you fell victim to some acute illness.

I do not tell you this to annoy you or to scare you half to death. I am telling you this for your own good, but desire to reassure you at once.

Disease is not like a determined murder. Disease is not a heartless assassin. Disease is not licking its chops and gloating over its power to destroy you.

Really, most diseases are pretty decent in that they will leave the field if given the chance. Your doctor will have no trouble in dismissing them if he has early opportunity.

Early attention will make it possible to wipe out every vestige of the chronic ailment. Advice as to diet or manner of living will be likely to restore you to perfect health.

There is no doubt that an occasional physical examination is the proper course for everybody to follow. Don't get morbid about it. Don't get self-centered. Don't talk about your ailments.

If your hands are soiled you wash them with soap and water. If your heart or kidneys are not right, do the simple things to restore them to normal, in the same spirit and for the same reason you keep your hands clean.

You despise a man who never paints his house or puts a new hinge on his gate, or never has his clothes mended if they are torn. What do you think of a man who is shiftless and careless about his health?

Ways to Keep Your Eyes Beautiful

By LUCREZIA BORI
The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

BEAUTIFUL eyes must be healthy. There is nothing more attractive than the loveliness of woman's eyes, for lovely eyes can dominate the whole face. One carries away the impression of the eyes and forgets whether the face matches up to beauty requirements or not.

I do not tell you this to annoy not pretty at all. She has lovely eyes and she has always cared for them according to the most approved beauty methods. The result is that her eyes are as perfect as they were in her early youth. When I talk to her, I notice her eyes above all else. Their beauty dominates her face to such an extent that many people think her really beautiful.

So many women neglect their eyes and thus allow a real claim to beauty to deteriorate and become a secondary consideration. Of course, I think that eyes are dominated to a great extent by the beauty which comes from within. If a woman's eyes shine with inward beauty, they can be effective regardless of their color or size. They do not have to be a beautiful blue or brown, and they do not have to be the big, round eyes, or the long, slanting eyes so often ascribed to the heroines of fiction.

But eyes do have to be strong and healthy and rested to shine with the brilliance which is rightfully theirs.

You must take good care of your general health and you must sleep enough if your eyes are to appear at their best. The most intelligent care of the eyes means having them examined by an expert at the least signal of danger. You can tell yourself when your eyes do not feel at their best, and if this means that you are straining them and need glasses you owe it to yourself to have this attended to immediately.

Statistics show that almost 50 per cent of the wage earners in America are laboring under the burden of defective vision. This is really an appalling revelation. Don't let yourself be numbered among those who allow themselves to be handicapped in this fashion, and urge any one you know who has weak eyes to give them the best of specialized attention.

You should always have on hand an effective eye wash to cleanse and rest your eyes. A very good one is a solution of boracic acid, which your druggist will prepare for you.

Apply this with an eye-cup or an eye-dropper. The latter, simply a glass tube with a small rubber bulb at the end, really is less wasteful, I think, than an eye-cup. You can hold your head back and drop the solution directly into your eye. This is also an excellent thing to take when traveling.

You should never go on a train journey without a small bottle of eye wash and an eye-cup or dropper. The cleansing wash is very helpful if you get a cinder in your eye; but just on general principles the eye wash is an excellent thing to use to rest and cleanse your eyes at the end of the day.

For with eyes, as well as with your entire body, cleanliness is a great step toward beauty.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 9.

According to this day's mutual aspects there may be anxieties and complications of a nature difficult to fathom until their development. The occult and mysterious planets, Uranus and Neptune dominate the activities of the day, and are likely to manifest in an abrupt, possibly revolutionary manner. New enterprises may well be avoided and treachery and subtlety may mark some old affiliations. The stellar seers warn against enemies in high places and diplomatic intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of perplexity and intrigue. They would do well to be on guard against all sorts of possible sinister attacks or subtle undoing, especially if occupying any responsible position. It would be well to shun new enterprises and be prepared for sudden visitations. Avoid worry. A child born on this day is likely to be active, enterprising and generally successful if it does not let its ambition run beyond its strength.

This Unusual Brown Coat Is Trimmed with Kolinsky.

THE unusual coat above bespeaks its French origin in every line. The material which makes it is a soft woolen fabric in a lovely dark brown. The gay little flounce starts well up toward the waistline at either side and dips down toward the center of the back.

The model fastens invisibly down the front, and the deep fur bands which trim flounce, neck and sleeves are of kolinsky.

LINCOLN ELKS HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Impressive Exercises Include Address by Clem F. Kimball in Honor of Deceased Members.

The annual memorial service of Lincoln lodge No. 80, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, was held Sunday afternoon at the Lyric theater before a large crowd. An impressive program was put on the major part of which was the memorial address by Clem F. Kimball, of Council Bluffs, Ia., recently elected lieutenant-governor of Iowa.

The names of Lincoln Elks who passed away within the past year were cast upon the motion picture screen during the singing of "The Vacant Chair" by a male quartet. Those added to the roll of honored dead during 1924:

William H. Bonev, Henry Gund, Edward M. Boyd, Ed B. Hafertepen, O Jansen Collman, George W. Lowrey, John H. Erford, Jesse C. Morgan, Stephen L. Geisthardt, Fletcher L. Wharton, Phillip F Greene

The services were open to the public. The total number of names on the death roll of Lincoln lodge now numbers one hundred and twenty-three. Memorial services of this sort were held by every Elks lodge thruout the land Sunday.

Officers of the lodge were seated on the stage. Two large baskets of white chrysanthemums were setting toward the front of the stage. Exalted Ruler Arthur J. Kurz opened the lodge after music by the Elks orchestra which is directed by Prof. William T. Quick.

Mr. Kimball delivered a fitting address. "We are met together to pay a tribute to the souls that in life were linked with ours," he said. "Today we speak sympathy with those who are here and mourn over those that are gone. The only comfort that can come to the living from the dead is kind thoughts. We shall forever cherish the memory of our departed brothers. Far better is it that these names be preserved by this congregation than their tombs be marked by stately monuments.

"The monumental buildings which Rome built to stand forever are now but a pile of dust. Out of this dust remains the memories of such men as Paul. The columns of Marathon are also but dust. But the story of Miltiades and his example to the world will live on. These men whom we honor today have left their examples and something of their life will live in memory. Something out of their life may be our inspiration. Are we not after all builders, like the little coral building on the great super-structure which destiny and the almighty intended for us.

The human soul is indeed a mystery. Between the beginning of life and death human existence is a struggle of the soul. The soul is cast into the whirlpool of life to combat wrong and to strive for righteousness.

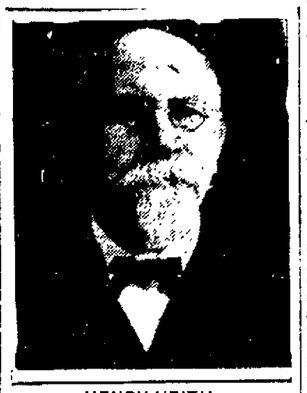

"Back of every human action is self-desire and a self-motive. A person may shoot a fellow man because of self-motive. He is controlled by self-motive without reason. While we study the destiny of the human soul we notice the movement of the whirlpool of struggle between selfishness and unselfishness.

"Victory in the struggle of the soul is more than mortal. The human soul is drawn by an instinct downward. The story of the struggle of the human soul is written in the story of the vine as it lifts up out of the dense forest. Today we are interested in that relation of the soul which has been developed out of the wonderful organization of God—the fraternity. This soul, in its struggle for existence finds that there are storms in the pathway of life. Destiny drives us together like the deer in the fastnesses of the hills.

"Coming down thru the history of mankind comes crying into the human ear the question of immortality, shall we live again? Some believe that the souls of the dead are near us and some that they are waiting at some distant place. Others hold to the belief that some day at the call of the trumpet we all will arise. There always has been the intimation in the human soul that it carries a promise of the power of God. We have the law of conservation of matter. This great principle that nothing in the way of matter in the world is gained and none is destroyed. You can change the sunlight of heaven into warmth. You can change it back and forth into electrical energy but nothing is lost. This is an indication that the soul of man is immortal.

"I know not where the home of the soul is. No theologian can tell us. Tho no power can understand the infinity, we know that this great soul within us takes part in this great planet. Some day we shall understand and know the purpose of it all."

Invocation and the benediction were given by Rev. Dwight H. Dow, chaplain of the lodge. Kipling's "Recessional" and "The Vacant Chair" were sung by a male quartet. Following the address Mrs. Royal Brewster sang "Over the Stars There is Rest." The service closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the male quartet and the audience.

HENRY VEITH

Pioneer business man of Lincoln who died at his home, 847 J street, at 2 p. m. Sunday.

HENRY VEITH DIES AT HOME SUNDAY

Was One of Pioneer Business Men of City, and Helped Organize St. Paul's Evangelical Church.

Henry Veith, seventy-eight years and five days old, for over fifty years a business man of Lincoln, died at his home at 847 J street at 2 p. m. Sunday. He had been ailing for over a year. His condition became more serious about two weeks ago, and altho the family had hopes of his recovery he took a turn for the worse and passed away Sunday.

Mr. Veith was born December 2, 1846, in Nieder Ramstadt, Hessen, Germany. He left Germany when a young man going first to London, where he lived for a year before coming to the United States. He arrived in the United States in 1867, going first to Pekin, Illinois where he worked for the railroad. He came to Lincoln in 1869 and entered into a partnership with his brother-in-law on the west side of postoffice square. In 1871 he started in business for himself at the present location with a bakery and confectionery business, later adding groceries.

Mr. Veith was married to Miss Katharina Goetz, February 24, 1872 at Lincoln. To this union were born nine children, eight of whom are living. He served as councilman of the second ward two terms, entering office in 1892. In 1895 he opened a hardware department in connection with his grocery business under the firm name of Henry Veith Co., in its present location at 905-909 O street. He was actively engaged in conducting his business until after the celebration of his golden wedding on February 24, 1922.

At the time of the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of St. Paul's Evangelical church, February, 1923, he took part in the ceremonies as one of the few surviving organizers of that congregation.

He is survived by his widow, Katharina Veith, and the following children: Henry, jr., Katharina C., Mrs. W. L. Finney, Mrs. W. H. Benedict, of St. Paul, Minn; Fred J., William W., Mrs. Hugo G. Schmidt, and Mrs. J. K. Hewett, all of Lincoln. There are nine grandchildren living; and one great grandchild. Mrs. Sophia Hauck of Minneapolis, a half sister of Mr. Veith, also survives him.

Oh! What tortures—what agony—what despair—goes with the nights where eczema and other skin diseases hold power and drive away rest and peaceful slumber. For under the cover of darkness like crafty beings of the underworld these eruptions work their most serious havoc.

S.S.S. is the established conqueror of these annoying skin diseases. S.S.S. drives these ever disturbing elements from your system—elements that carry in their wake—lack of energy—undermining health! You may try in vain to get rid of them by using salves, lotions, washes, all to no purpose. You can't do it that way—the seat of the trouble lies deeper—impure blood trying to throw off poisons through the tender skin.

S.S.S. purifies the blood. It aids Nature in creating new red-blood-cells by the million! Blood-cells that send new rich blood coursing through your system. Red blood that drives away eczema—drives away pimples, blackheads, boils and rheumatism, too. An increase in red-blood-cells means added strength, added vitality and renewed vigor. Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

Copyright 1924 by C. P. Wm.

"Pull-Overs" for Roughing It.

Since the lowly sweater became the haughty "pull over," it has had to live up to its pretensions, like the mushroom American millionaire to his English valet, French chef and Persian lounging robe. Most latter-day sweaters have been improved with such ingenuity of refinement that they hardly resemble sweaters at all Rather they are spruce knitted jackets which fit as trimly as a coat and are as colorful as a cravat.

The sweater used to be a livery in a man's wardrobe, reserved for the country or the course. Today, it is a necessity the year 'round, whether you be a sportsman, a try-to-be-sportman or the sort of sportsman who cannot tell a bunker from a Bunker Hill monument. Indeed, it is not uncommon for The Well-Dressed Man to own half-a-dozen sweaters—the Englishman terms jumpers—to match differently colored knickers and stockings. When a sweater is sleeveless it is usually called a knitted waistcoat

Not all of us, however, fancy the light-woven type of garment with the round, V-neck or square front opening. Some prefer a hefty sweater of goodly weight and thickness having a collar that comes up right-and-tight to the neck, as pictured in the accompanying sketch. This is a style which in former years was known as "turtle neck" and was a top favorite with university athletes. Its characteristic feature is the deep, snug, roll-over collar, giving more than ordinary warmth The pattern may be plain white or may show a faint checked design.

Naturally, a sweater of this type is designed for "roughing it" rather than for lighter, politer use. It is admirable for coming winter sports as well as for any exposure to whistling winds. Tasseled toques to match, sometimes brightly striped along the edges, are also procurable, tho the ordinary cloth cap is quite correct, as sketched.

With a sweater for "roughing it" always wear knickers. Trousers look out of place. Sweaters, like coats, should not be hung upon a hook but draped over a wooden or metal form or smoothed out and laid flat in a bureau drawer The care given to a sweater will go far to preserve its shape and prolong its life

DONALD RINGER HELD FOR FURTHER QUESTIONING

Chief of Police Branagan of Hastings Sees Some Light After Long Search in Murder Case.

Donald Ringer, nineteen, is in custody at Lyman, Miss, for questioning in connection with the murder at Hastings on October 16 of Carl Moore, automobile salesman Chief of Police Branagan of Hastings, who for six weeks has trailed Ringer from one stop to another, is in Mississippi. It is believed at state law enforcement headquarters that the youth will be returned to Nebraska, and that information of value in clearing the mystery will be obtained

Backed by the citizenship of Hastings and Adams county, Mr. Ringer started on the hunt for evidence immediately after the finding of Moore's body fifteen miles southwest of Hastings. He had left town with two men to demonstrate a car. The car was later abandoned at Wilber. Two men were seen to leave in opposition directions. It was believed that they caught a late afternoon train for Lincoln The officers learned that two men answering the description went from here to St Joseph, Mo

The Hastings chief trailed Ringer to St. Joe and to Belleville, Ill, where a sister lives The chief later picked up a clue leading to Mississippi In addition to the sister at Belleville. Ringer has a sister, Mrs. Robert Brown, living at Gulfport, Miss. Another sister is employed at Franklin, Neb. Ringer's mother, Mrs. Breckner, lives at Hastings.

For several weeks, Chief Branagan has been in communication with the state sheriff's office He is a special deputy with the state department

CITY PLANNERS TO STUDY ZONE SYSTEM

Proposed Ordinance and Amendments to Be Special Order of Business at the Next Meeting.

Preparatory to a renewed campaign in behalf of Lincoln's proposed zoning ordinance, the city planning subdivision, meeting Monday at the chamber of commerce, voted to give all the time at the next meeting to a study of the ordinance in its present form and also the changes that have been proposed. City Engineer Erickson a mmeber of the subdivision, will be invited to present these changes for consideration

In discussing why the ordinance had never come up for final action by the city council, it developed that not all members of the subdivision felt themselves sufficiently well informed to conduct a campaign, an dthis special meeting was arranged as a means of preparing the members for such action. It was pointed out that while the proposed ordinance, drawn by New York experts, had been printed and circulated, it was too long and technical for public consumption, and the subdivision will take steps to have as ummary prepared. With this as a basis, the members hope to be able to sell the idea to the public so that if the city council should pass the ordinance and then submit it to the public, the referendum would support it; while if this were not done, the intiative process could be successfully invoked.

IOWA MAN NOT CONSIDERED

Director of Child Welfare Bureau Not Considered as Executive at Nebraska University.

A report published in the Sunday Daily Nebraskan concerning a rumor, emanating from the University of Iowa, Daily Iowan, that a Dr. Baldwin, director of the child welfare research station at the University of Iowa, had been offered an executive position at the University of Nebraska, is entirely without foundation in fact, it was authoritatively stated at the University, Monday. So far as can be ascertained, no person by that name has ever been approached on the subject by any Nebraska official

The report from Iowa City, quoted by The Nebraskan, stated that Dr. Baldwin had been offered the chancellorship of the University of Nebraska This was corrected by the Nebraskan which stated the offer was probably that of the deanship of the college of arts and sciences. An emphatic denial that the Iowa man was being considered for any position was received from Regent Webster of Omaha, and Regent Landis of Seward.

"Sherlock" Goes Back to Farm To Await Demand For Sleuths

Monday morning a sadder and wiser young man left the police station, bereft of a great ambition, and converted to the wisdom of staying in the beaten paths

His great ambition had been to become a great detective, a master sleuth, an infallible analyst, a terror to all of the criminals in the world With this surpassing goal in view, he told officers, he had traded two revolvers and four dollars in cash for a revolver that had "Secret Service Special" graven on the side of the barrel.

That inscription made the gun look official to him Upon examination at police headquarters the weapon was deemed to be older than the young man who carried it, and its value was set at less than $4

Anxious to test his powers as a detective, the youth engaged a room at a prominent hotel and prepared for a stay of several days. He hung a badge that had "P. O. G" across its face, on his left vest front, and hung his cartridge belt, gun and holster over the head of his bed. Then he rang for the bell boy, who was impressed.

Seated above the foyer, the embryonic Sherlock Holmes lofrily told the bell-boy, whom he always called by number in order to get the same one each time, that "he could not go downstairs because there was someone down there that he was shadowing." The "great detective" tipped generously, to there was no complaint from the bell boy.

While thus sojourning at the hotel, so the story goes, the youth decided to call by long distance and mend matters with his wife in a distant town, with whom he had had a lover's quarrel. They had been married a year. By dint of a prolonged conversation, domestic troubles were healed.

The jolt came when the youth applied for his bill. The expense of patching up his family relations amounted to more than twelve dollars An inventory of his purse disclosed that ther ewas not enough money to pa yout. So he slipped quietly away, leaving the account unpaid.

The management was mildly interested in the credit guest's disappearance, but nothing was heard of him for several weeks. Last Saturday he caled up his favorite bell boy, who invited him to visit the hotel. Police took the visitor to headquarters where he was questioned, but no charge was filed against him when he settled his account and promised to follow his trade until there is a much greater demand for detectives.

BROTHER TAKES HIS JOB

Louis R. Anderson to Succeed Charlie Anderson Under Commissioner Cowgill.

Brother will succeed brother when Louis R Anderson becomes assistant superintendent of streets in place of Charlie Anderson who will serve as constable under Municipal Judge Chappell.

Mr. Cowgill stated Monday that the appointment probably will be effective in about one week so that Louis Anderson may have some training under his brother before the latter assumes his new duties early in January.

The new assistant was prominent in university athletics a few years ago. He earned his letter on the track and in 1912 made a good showing in the Olympics at Stockholm. He is a graduate of Lincoln high school and the state university. In commenting on the change in his official personnel, Mr. Cowgill said:

"I certainly hate to lose Charlie. He has been a good man. It is entirely a matter of money. He will get more in his new position and I certainly would not stand in the way of a financial promotion. I am assured that he will not earn less than $3,500 a year. His salary as assistant superintendent of streets is $2 400.

Iowa Alumnus Puts Husker Name Before Big Ten

INDIRECT ACTION ON A MEMBERSHIP

William J. Holtz, Omaha, Places Nebraska in Way of Nomination Into Western Conference, It Is Learned.

Nebraska, contrary to press association reports appearing in Sunday's Journal, did not make direct application for membership in the Western conference, it became known Monday morning. The application was filed by William J. Holtz, an Omaha business man and not a Nebraska faculty member. Mr. Holtz is president of the Iowa alumni association and it was this association, according to the report, that sponsored the move to get Nebraska consideration by the Big Ten.

There was a feeling, it now develops, among many alumni organizations of the Big Ten that Nebraska should be a member of the Western conference. This feeling brought the action of Mr. Holtz.

Schedule Too Few Games.

A glance at some of the Big Ten schedules which were announced at Chicago would bear out the opinion that has long been held that there are several members of the Western conference which have been outgrown in the last few years. Three of the universities scheduled but three Big Ten games. Unless they get at least one more these teams will not be eligible for consideration in the championship races.

Nebraska officials were hoping that the indirect application of Nebraska would not become known as they feared the wrong conception would be given. There was no move on the Cornhusker school's part to gain the membership altho a place in the Big Ten list would admittedly help Nebraska's rating.

Nebraska's schedule for 1925 remains just where it was Saturday, according to announcement by Athletic Director Dawson. The October 17 date is still unfilled altho there are strings out in many directions.

Keith Neville's criticism of Nebraska athletics which appeared in a letter written by him and published in Omaha, brought forth no comment from athletic heads at the Cornhusker institution.

Frank Coaches Freshmen.

Nr. Neville was misguided in two or three instances. He believes Owen Frank is still coaching the backfield. After the first two weeks of the 1924 season Frank had charge of the freshman team and did not handle the 'varsity backs at all. He was used as a scout and football men know him to be one of the best. His duty then was to drill the freshmen on the next opponent's plays in order that the 'varsity could get an indication of the style of attack which it would face.

The fastest man he ever saw in football clothes is the way Mr. Neville refers to Roland Locke without mentioning the latter's name. He believes Locke was handicapped in both of his seasons here because he was not given the proper plays. For the first four weeks of this season Locke was carrying an ankle injury which prevented his playing. He was not in shape to make the Oklahoma trip.

Last year, Mr. Neville believes, Locke was unnecessarily injured when he was sent into the line. This year the former governor criticizes the coaching staff for running Locke from punt formation afound the ends. Locke himself pleaded for off-tackle plays.

Coach Dawson is a firm believer in the Stagg theory that a few plays well learned are better than a variety of plays which tend to confuse. Alumni of Nebraska sounded on the Neville letter believed the former governor was partly right and partly wrong.

"Some of the criticism is well founded and constructive. Other parts of his letter evidently are based on misinformation," one alumnus said.

Facts Are Facts.

He attacks the forward passing game of the Huskers. It saved a shutout at Oklahoma, beat Kansas, aided materially in the romp with Colgate, helped trim Missouri and Oregon Aggies and brought this comment from followers of the Kansas Aggies, one of the best passing teams in the valley:

"Nebraska beat us at our own game, forward passing."

Nebraska's backs may have appeared awkward in the handling of forward passes, but the records bear out the fact that they brought results and that, in the long run, is the object of any more in football.

Beating Missouri, the team which is looked upon generally as the valley champions, was an accomplishment that has apparently gone unnoticed. Nebraska was the only team that did it and the Tigers admitted defeat after the game. There were no "breaks" connected with the victory. If a Nebraska halfback was double-crossed and since the Oregon Aggie game it is not safe to contradict Mr Neville on that score, it went unnoticed by the majority of those who saw the game.

All-Time Huskers.

Down at Falls City they say it's harder to put an all-time Cornhusker eleven than it is to select any conference honor teams. But picking the stars of the recent football season has become a pastime that rivals crossword puzzling in the Richardson county town. The following is one of the [illegible]

Keith Neville Says Nebraska Is Lacking in Athletic Leadership

In a letter to an Omaha newspaper, Keith Neville, former governor and a man long interested in sports, having coached North Platte to a state high school championship, asks and answers a question regarding Nebraska athletics. He asks "What's wrong with Nebraska athletics?" Answering he says it is a lack of leadership. His letter:

KEITH NEVILLE.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb.—To the Sport Editor: Many graduates and loyal friends of the University of Nebraska are wondering what can be the matter with the athletics of that institution. As a friend of the university who has followed athletics, I will submit my views for what they are worth in the hopes that they may develop a discussion that will be helpful to the situation there.

In my opinion there are two things the matter with Nebraska athletics. First, a lack of leadership on the part of those who have athletics in charge. Second, a football system which does not develop the highest proficiency in the teams. Those who have witnessed football games at Nebraska in the past few years must concede that the Nebraska lines have been aggressive and well coached. This year the trouble with the line was a lack of material, but it is also true that in the past two years the forward passing game of Nebraska has been virtually negligible at least in the six games that I have witnessed.

Must Throw at Once.

In 1923 the apparent theory was that the passer should throw the ball as soon as he received it from the center to a certain point where a man would be to receive it. This year the system was not much improved. It is a fundamental principal that the passer must be given protection and that if he can hold the ball long enough some one of a smart set of ends and backs will get loose. There are two systems of giving this protection. Rockne usually fakes an off-tackle play, the passer receiving the ball from the man who first takes it from the center.

The other system designates certain backs and linemen to drop back and block. The latter system has the advantage of enabling the passer to view the entire field as the play develops and a disadvantage of permitting the opposing team to diagnose the play earlier. To be successful the element of fake with a delayed receiver must be injected into the receiving end of the play. Both systems can be used to advantage by any team. On the receiving end it is fundamental that the element of fake must be used at least as a threat. Rockne nearly always shoots out a fast back to receive the pass after the play has apparently developed in the event the ends and decoys are covered. Such passes as were completed by Nebraska in the games that I have witnessed during the past two years were completed thru the grace of a partisan providence.

Last season the highest conception that the Nebraska staff had for utilizing speed in a halfback was to jam him into the line to be broken up. This year the system has advanced a pace (probably due to a desire to save their fastest back for track.) He carried the ball in the three games that I witnessed on a swinging end run from a punt formation. The four or five extra yards imposed by the punt formation which had to be gained in addition to beating the opposing team to the side line off-set any superiority of speed, and in game after game the fastest man I have ever seen in football clothes was often thrown for a loss or failed to gain.

Recalls 1923 Charges.

Last season (1923) an Omaha newspaper published an article charging that Owen Frank was prejudiced by fraternity considerations in the selection of the backs. It could be justly charged, I think, that "Turp" is a slave to theories which are more or less antiquated. That he may have used poor judgment in selecting backs, because in listing the virtues of backfield men—courage, speed, brains and weight—he places speed last and brains next to last.

But no one who knows him will ever believe that he was disloyal to the university and that he put an inferior player into a game knowing him to be such.

This year we have again the annual trouble. The day following the election of a football captain the athletic board started an investigation which developed that the captaincy had been won by a combination engineered thru the fraternities and that the deal in addition included the election of a captain in 1925. The board very properly set the election aside. The investigation further developed, it is alleged, that in the Thanksgiving day game certain players worked to discredit other players for the purpose of influencing the selection of a captain. It would be hard to believe that such could be the case if I had not observed similar incidents that happened this season at Nebraska.

I sat in the stadium during the Missouri game and saw a halfback deliberately double-crossed on two different occasions, once in the first half and once in the second half, for the purpose of discrediting him, and the men who perpetrated the outrage, who were disloyal to the team and to the university who are going thru Nebraska without absorbing its traditions, were not only permitted to continue in the game but have played in every game since and were awarded letters at the end of the season. At the conclusion of the investigation the athletic board elected a captain for the year 1925 and declared that after due consideration a system of selection would be announced that would prevent the interference of [illegible] politics in athletic elections. The selection of a captain by the athletic board was in my judgment a mistake and I now predict that no system devised by the athletic board which takes away from the team men the right to elect their captain will fail. The right to be the captain of a football team to lead their team has become by custom [illegible] It should not be taken away by any athletic board. The system of election is as old as football and one of its traditions. If the members of a football team cannot be trusted to elect their captain, they cannot be trusted to give their best efforts on the football field and should not be permitted to represent the university. When athletics reaches that stage, athletics had better be discontinued until such time as a spirit of loyalty and a regard for the honor and glory of the institution is developed.

Plenty of Traditions.

Why is it that such conditions exist at Nebraska? Is it because there are no traditions to inspire the student body and those who participate in athletics? No! The traditions of Nebraska are a glorious page in the history of colleges.

Is it because the young men and women who comprise the student body are inferior to those who attend other similar institutions in school loyalty and moral stamina? Never! The young men and women of Nebraska, who will control the destinies of our state in a short time, are the equal, if not the peer, in these particulars of those who attend any similar institution.

Why is it then that this canker exists at Nebraska? There can be but one answer. It is because there is a woeful lack of leadership on the part of those who have athletics in charge. What Nebraska needs is not new systems of selecting captains, but leaders in athletics. KEITH NEVILLE.

FARRELL STRINGS WITH TOM GIBBONS

Believes St. Paul Boxer Will Win Over Kid Norfolk in First Bout. Rickard Has Been Able to Make for Tom.

BY HENRY FARRELL.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Two leading boxers who are tagged as undesirables in most of the managerial note-books, meet tomorrow night in the first important bout of the season and in the most interesting match of the year.

Tom Gibbons, universally recognized as the best light-heavyweight in the world, will meet Kid Norfolk, the Negro champion, in Madison Square Garden in a contest promoted to raise a Christmas fund for the poor kids of the New York tenements.

Tex Rickard nearly fell off his chair in the Garden tower when he succeeded in making the match for the committee in charge of the charity. For two years he had been trying to get a first-class opponent for Gibbons and for the same length of time he had been trying to get some one to fight Norfolk. Rival managers could not be interested. Gibbons and Norfolk were too tough, Rickard was told in cold talk.

Agrees to Meet Anyone.

Gibbons, next to Dempsey, is the greatest drawing card in the ring and the committee looked upon him as the best boxer available to make a sure financial success of thes how. Gibbons accepted the offer when he was approached and agreed to fight anyone in the world.

Mike McTigue, Gene Tunney, Jack Renault, Louis Firpo and Harry Wills were offered the match and they turned it down. Rickard knew that to be a fact, but it was not proved publicly until the New York boxing commission took a hand.

Gibbons ought to win decisively and then he can have the thankless and fruitless assignments of trying to get a match with even a fair second-rater. Gibbons can't even get two-bit fighters to meet him now because they say he hurts them too much even if they are in the ring only a few minutes.

Ty Cobb: Remaker of Baseball.

Comparison

Sisler of the Browns—Hornsby of the Cards—What Rickey Thinks.

(Copyrighted, 1924, in the United States, Canada and Great Britain by North American Newspaper Alliance. All rights reserved.)

By H. G. Salinger.

Comparisons are often drawn between Ty Cobb and George Sisler or Rogers Hornsby. Some believed Sisler might overtake the Georgian but an unfortunate eye ailment cut down the brilliant career of the former University of Michigan star. Hornsby has steadily improved. Of the two Sisler most resembled Cobb.

But, returning to the matter of comparison. If there is one man who should be in position to pass judgment it is Branch Rickey. He resigned as baseball coach at Michigan to become manager of the St. Louis Americans. He took Sisler to St. Louis from the campus at Ann Arbor and saw him develop into one of the truly great players of the game. Then he went over to the National league and became manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. On his team he found Rogers Hornsby and he has seen Hornsby develop into the leading player of the National. Rickey saw much of Cobb while managing the Browns. He has seen much of Sisler and of Hornsby. Asked which of the three was the greatest player Rickey replied:

"Cobb is easily the greatest. No one can doubt that Cobb is the greatest that ever lived. Why I believe that Cobb carried brains in his feet. He at least played that way. I saw Cobb make one play while I was manager of the Browns that I will never forget. That one play, if nothing else, would convince me that Cobb was a super player.

Cobb Against Weilman.

"We were playing in Detroit and the score was tied in the ninth. Two were out. Carl Weilman, who had it on Detroit all the while he was in the American league, was pitching that day. It was Cobb's turn at bat.

"Weilman had more success against Cobb than any pitcher Cobb ever battled against. It was chiefly because Cobb could do nothing against Weilman that Weilman was able to beat the Tygers eight times in one season. But this day Cobb scored a point on Weilman.

"When Cobb came to bat Weilman started working on him. He never was convinced fully that Cobb was easy altho the records show that he was, as far as Weilman was concerned. Well, there was Weilman working on him and Cobb shifting around in the batter's box and doing everything he could to disrupt Weilman. He finally managed to get a base on balls.

As soon as Cobb reached first he took a long lead off the bag. Weilman threw to Leary, our first baseman, to catch Cobb off, but Cobb easily beat the throw, sliding gracefully into the sack. Leary lobbed the ball back to Weilman and Cobb immediately dashed away again and drew another throw which he managed to beat to the base.

Leary lobbed the ball back to Weilman and Cobb dashed away again. Weilman snatched the ball out of the air and whipped it back to Leary, but again too late to retire Cobb. He once more beat the throw.

Weilman Urged On.

I thought I saw a chance to capture the side by catching Cobb off first. I stood up in the dugout and yelled to Weilman:

"Do it again!"

"Weilman snapped the ball back to Leary but he had no more success than before. This time Leary, disgusted at failing to catch Cobb, lobbed the ball back to Weilman even higher than before and away Cobb went, this time for second base. Weilman snatched the ball out of the air and shot it to Johnny Lavan, who was playing second base for us. But Weilman over-hurried and the ball struck the ground near Lavan's feet and caromed off into center field. Cobb rounded second and kept right on going for third.

"Now, our centerfielder had backed up the play perfectly and had the ball before Cobb was half way to third base. I figured him a dead cinch for an out at third, where Jimmy Austin stood on the line awaiting the centerfielder's throw. The ball beat Cobb by yards, but Austin was overanxious and momentarily fumbled. Right here happened something that convinced me that Cobb had brains in his feet. Either that or he isn't human.

"The ball was lying out there between Austin and Cobb for just a fraction of a second. Austin was reaching for the ball but in that instant Cobb did more thinking than the average ball player does in a season. Instead of sliding for the base he was sliding for the ball feet first and proved that his foot was quicker than Austin's hand for before the third baseman could touch the ball Cobb gave it a kick that sent it into the dugout and then jogged to the plate with the winning run.

"It was a clear case of interference but I couldn't make the umpires see it that way. The game was over and you aren't going to win any arguments from the umpires after the umpires call it a day. At that, I would have been a crime to call Cobb out for interference after making a play as brilliant as that.

"Yes, sir, when you're talking of the world's greatest ball player you're talking about only one man T. Raymond Cobb."

Western League's Heavy Hitting Keeps Fielders Busy, Figures Show

Heavy hitting, such as prevails in the Western League from season to season, means fielders are kept busy, and the fielding averages for 1924 are impressive for number of chances.

Denver led the league in team fielding, a point above St. Joseph, which was second. Des Moines had most double plays, and the activity of its fielders is indicated by the large total of assists credited.

In individual fielding the list of first basemen is headed by Lellivelt of Tulsa, who also had the most assists at the position. Most putout were credited to Beck of Wichita.

McNally of Oklahoma City led the second basemen in percentage, and was an active guardian of the keystone withal, but he did not lead in total chances offered or accepted. Washburn of Tulsa accepted 984 chances in 169 games and missed 44 more that were offered him. Wilcox of Omaha and Tate of Oklahoma were leading figures among the third basemen.

Shortsop Filippin of Tulsa led the league in percentage at that position and made the notable record of handling 940 chances. He had 57 errors on additional chances.

Bonowitz of Omaha led the outfielders in percentage and also in number of putouts, having 466 in 166 games. Lamb of Tulsa is credited with 30 assists from the outfield.

Whaling led the catchers in fielding percentage, while Love of St. Joseph and Hutton of Des Moines tied for the honors among pitchers. Western league official averages for the 1924 season follow:

FIREWORKS DUE IN BIG LEAGUE MEET

Ban Johnson Will Be Asked to Produce Proof of Gambling on Pacific Coast and Fight Will Be On.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—When Ban Johnson shows his alleged proof of gambling on the Pacific coast to Commissioner Landis who will preside over the joint meetings of the major leagues Tuesday, the fireworks will start.

The American league head, who so earnestly attempted to have the last world's series called off because of the O'Connell-Dolan affair, is still gunning for Judge Landis, while he hopes a stray shot may clip John J. McGraw or Charles Stoneham, owners of the Giants. The meeting being presided over by the Chicago jurist will be the battle ground.

Judge Has Backing.

Experts who have studied the situation claim that Landis has the strongest backing. Most of Ban's followers have transferred their allegiance. Clark Griffith was lost to the Johnson forces when Ban peppered away at the first world series the Washington leader ever enjoyed.

After lauding Landis as they have, the owners of the minor leagues expect in return to have the judge demand of Johnson the proof of his charges. It is rumored that the evidence to be produced is but a bunch of newspaper clippings. The small boys have already stated their position by voting an endorsement of Landis at Hartford earlier in the week.

The bulk of trades are still uncertain, altho Ty Cobb is still seeking a second baseman, whom he hopes to get without trading Lu Blue, his first sacker. He wouldn't swap Lu for a pennant, so Detroit still has a vacancy back of the pitcher. Robinson is looking for some one to take Dutch Reuther from him, since the southpaw is not popular with the Brooklyn fans.

To Re-elect Heydler.

So Tuesday will find the National league probably re-electing John Heydler as president of the league, with a raise in salary, while at the same time Ban Johnson will try to show why he should continue his contract until 1931.

Chicago Bears Win Professional Title

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—By defeating Guy Chamberlain's Cleveland Bulldogs, 23 to 0, the Chicago Bears, Sunday cinched the national professional football championship.

Until the last quarter when an aerial attack resulted in two touchdowns the game was comparatively close.

Joe Stetbaman skirted an end for a touchdown in the second quarter, booted the extra point, and then a moment later kicked a field goal from the 22-yard line.

The Bulldogs, leading the professional league until last week, found difficulty in working their great aerial attack and were unable to stop the Bears' line plunging.

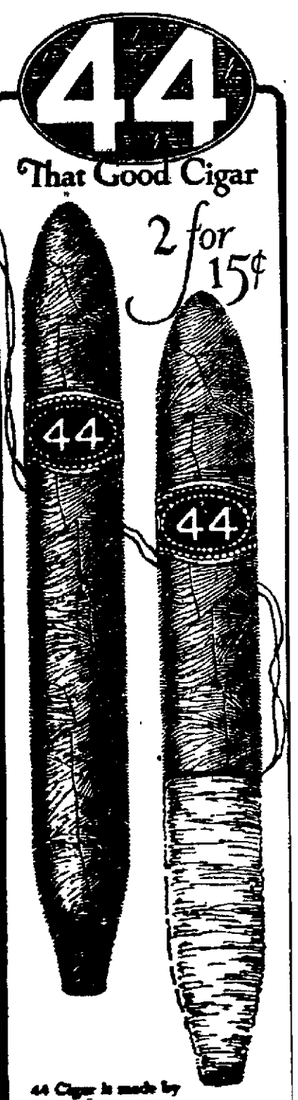

Wins Home.

The Sioux City Journal, in describing Frankie Larrabee's victory in a semifinal bout there, goes the limit in praise. Larrabee is a Lincoln boxer and is now under the management of Harry Reed. The Journal's account of the bout:

"And now for the gem of the evening, boys, the semi-final in which Frankie Larrabee of Lincoln, 126 pounds and eighteen years old, whipped Frankie Smith, of Des Moines, and all but stopped this man. Frankie Smith is a good boy. That was discovered when he fought here the first time a few weeks ago. But when he met this Larrabee youngster, fighting for the first time away from home, he brought himself the prettiest trimming anyone has had in this man's town in a long time. Larrabee took six of the rounds by a mile and Smith got one by a shade. Rounds two, three and five were even, but on a hairline decision Larrabee would get them.

"Larrabee had his man nearly out on his feet in the fourth. Wow, but that kid is good! He landed rights and lefts to Smith's head in a fast mixup in the fourth, and the Des Moines boy staggered backward across the ring and brought up against the ropes. It looked as if he must go down. But the Iowa boy is a game one and carried on. Toe to toe in frame after frame they stood and slugged, and Larrabee had the better of it nine times out of ten. The boy protects himself like a veteran. He can cover, he can let his hand go with the blows, rocking from side to side and taking out the sting. In Jose he's a little scorpion. He always had the advantage on the break when they fought themselves free.

"Smith, who is known to be a puncher, tried to get set for a knockout. Frankie Larrabee wouldn't let him do it. The Lincoln lad kept moving, and flinging gloves. He only had two on his hands but he was a magician with them. He transformed them into a basketful of padded mitts and he threw them at Smith from start to finish. Smith caught him with one especially good punch on the jaw and Larrabee staggered but came back fighting. Larrabee took care of as he ought to be. Frankie Larrabee will be heard from. He is a natural fighter. He has a fine left jab. It is no better than his right cross. Neither has it on his uppercut, either hand if you please. He can hook, too, and can swing on occasion. He's a tough boy, and Smit wouhld have done far better if he had been able to find him. Frankie Larrabee's first showing in Sioux City introduced one of the most promising youngsters scared up anywhere since the days of Terry McGovern.

With fairly liberal receipts of cattle made up very largely of short feds and warmed up stock the market presented no new features and prices were just about steady with the close of last week. NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Bullish enthusiasm characterizing last week's dealing was revived in striking fashion by a remarkable display of technical strength in today's session of the stock exchange. A heavy wave of profit taking occurred in the first and third hours only to be followed by an abrupt upturn in the general list in the afternoon dealings. Speculators resumed their operations for the rise in special stocks and the bullishness was felt thruout practically the entire list.

OMAHA FIRM IS BANKRUPT

RECEIVER NAMED FOR BURGESS-NASH COMPANY.

Judge Woodrough Puts Herbert S. Daniel in as Receiver—Several Offers of Big Eastern Stores to Buy.

OMAHA, Dec. 8.—The Burgess-Nash company, one of Omaha's largest department stores, after a rough time financially for the past year, was adjudged bankrupt in federal court here today by Judge Coodrough.

Herbert S. Daniel was named receiver.

Several offers from big eastern stores to buy the company were announced and quick sale is expected, according to Daniel.

The slump in merchandise values that followed the deflation of 1921 was the original cause for the troubles that have engulfed the firm, which was closely allied with the wholesale firm of M. E. Smith & Co. Ward Burgess induced the Woods brothers of Lincoln to put some money into the business a year or so ago, and they inaugurated a campaign of stock selling in order to provide it with sufficient working capital. This compaign had not proceeded very far until they discovered that not all of the facts about the firm's condition had been revealed to them, and the stock was withdrawn from the market and that which had been subscribed trusteed.

Various efforts have been made to finance the firm, but not all of the creditors have been willing to accept the terms offered them. The Omaha advices do not say what precipitated the present crisis, but it is assumed that this offered a way out of the firm's difficulties, as a receiver can keep it going until he can dispose of it to advantage.

SECOND ATTEMPT TO BREAK WILL

Albert D. Welton Begins Appeal in Effort to Gain Larger Share of $100,000 Estate.

A second attempt to break the will of the late Ella M. Welton, wealthy Greenwood resident and land owner, was started in Judge Shepherd's court Monday morning. Mrs. Welton died November 26, 1921, leaving an estate valued upwards of $100,000. Her son, Albert D. Welton, is the complainant.

Mr. Welton in his testimony in the forenoon hearing, declared that his brother Clarence Welton, began a cumulative campaign to influence his mother against him in 1915. He declares that when the amounts of the children's debts to their mother were figured up he was charged with $23,000 more than he should have been held responsible for.

A note for $17,000 signed by him was introduced in evidence which he declares is not truly representative of his indebtedness to his mother. He stated that he purchased bank stock in the sum of $6,500 for his mother and that transaction is included in the note. The case was tried before County Judge Reid some time ago. He refused to set the will aside. Attorney C. L. Rein is representing the plaintiff son and Max Beghtol is conducting the defense.

WARNING TO FARMERS

President of American Farm Bureau Federation Tells Them to Keep Out of Politics.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—A warning to farmers to keep out of politics as a group was sounded today by O. E. Bradfute, president, in the opening address to the sixth annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Farmers should exert their combined efforts toward solution of their economic problems instead of worrying about politics, Bradfute said.

Men and Things

The story of Pygmalion really ought never to have been written. You will remember that he was the mythological sculptor who made the statue of a woman so beautiful that he fell in love with it. It being a day when the gods felt kindly they proceeded to breathe life into it—and they lived happily ever afterward. The trouble with that story is that the beauty of the imagery and the delicacy of the passion narrated is missed by most of those who read it, and the only lesson they draw from it is that it is all right to be egotistical, to love one's own creation. Note how well the actors think of themselves after they have carved out careers for themselves.

Those old Romans to whom were first given the keys to the vast treasure house of knowledge appear to have been more impressed with the majesty and power of death more than of any other fact they uncovered. It is their insistence upon writing about it that adds somewhat of gloom to many of the fine bits of philosophy they left behind them. Today we refuse to discuss or think of death until it approaches near enough for us to touch or see. We think in terms of life, while they dawdled death on their intellectual knees. Thus we find Seneca saying that "death is everywhere; heaven has well provided for that. Any one may deprive us of life; no one can deprive us of death." Or we read of others criticising those who complain of their suffering and hard lot in life and telling them that it is their own cowardice that keeps them bound to the wheel.

In the past month or two we have talked with a score or more of farmers, and the astonishing thing about it was that only one of them appeared to be weighted down with woe. He was a farmer who has several times run for office and who is thoroly convinced that what the farmer needs is legislative aid of some sort or another. All of the others minimized the stories of distress on the farm among land owners. They said generally that while they seemed to have got the worst of it in the readjustment of prices that accompanied deflation, the pendulum was swinging back, and in the end agriculture would again be firmly on its feet. Several said pointedly that if the politicians and the newspapers would quit representing the industry as nearly bankrupt this would help materially.

Far be it from us to say anything that would add to the poignancy of the grief of those who really love the democratic party—at least not on Tuesdays and Fridays—but did you know that when President Wilson commissioned Barney Baruch, a democrat, to go out and get an organization of capable and successful business men he found, after he had got them all together that ever blamed one of them was a republican. Will Rogers says that when Wilson remonstrated Baruch said that of course he could go out and get some democrats, but they would not be very prominent or have any industries. This was the war board that so successfully functioned in the handling of supplies.

The science of practical politics is the science of scheming. Involved in it necessarily is something of deceit, a lot of secrecy and a considerable amount of unfairness. Old Mr. Machiavelli laid down its principles when he was on earth, and craft and cunning used to subvert the popular will and warp the independent judgment of men were the instruments. Every now and then some such application of the principles of practical politics is attempted by the university fraternities in the parceling out of athletic honors. Instead of these being given to those thought most deserving by their companions they are distributed among the fraternities represented by practical politicians with an ability to make up a winning combination.

The political nominating convention went out of business he ore a blast of public scorn due to the
